Diplomacy, Specific Plans U.S. Aim For U.N. Gains

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. strategists counted today on a combination of quiet personal diplomacy and specific proposals to make headway at the star-studded 15th session of the United Nations General Assembly.

The American plans were in pointed contrast to the actions of Nikita Khrushchev. U.S. observers felt the Soviet Premier had damaged his own cause at the U. N.

The specific American proposals are being shaped up as a follow-through to President Eisenhower's speech to the Assembly last week.

The first of these, outlining the U.S. plan for aid to Africa through the U.N., already has been submitted. Proposals for peaceful use of outer space and for disarmament will be presented later.

Qualified U. S. informants believe Khrushchev might well have scored a gain for the Communist camp had he come to the U. N. with appealing proposals for disarmament and Africa, acted with the diplomatic dignity expected of a man in his position, held a press conference and some private meetings and departed.

Instead, it is felt the Soviet Premier antagonized many new and neutral delegates by his attacks on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, his plan for splitting the U. N. executive in three and by his crudeness, the like of which had not been seen at the U. N. before.

It is believed many delegates have been offended by Khrushchev's antics.

Lemnitzer, 61, Steps Into Top Military Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, a studious onetime artilleryman who qualified as a paratrooper at the age of 51, takes over today as the nation's top military officer.

Lemnitzer, 61, is stepping up after a 14-month stint as Army chief of staff to become chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He succeeds Air Force Gen. Nathan F. Twining.

Leaders of the various military services arranged to attend a Pentagon ceremony today for the swearing-in of Lemnitzer. His successor as Army chief of staff, Gen. George H. Decker, was to be sworn in a few minutes later.

Associates and subordinates who are asked to evaluate Lemnitzer mention traits such as: a first rate diplomat . . . a brilliant mind . . . an expert planner . a stickler for top organizational work by his staff . . a man of moderation . . . tremendous dignity.

Lemnitzer also rates high with brother officers in the other services—a factor that can be of great value during any outbreaks of interservice rivalry.

Lemnitzer left his hometown of Honesdale, Pa. to enter the military academy in 1918. He was graduated 86th out of 271 in the West Point class of 1920.

Hunt On For Egyptian Plane With 23 Aboard

ROME (AP)—A search by land, sea and air went on today for an Egyptian airliner missing near the mountainous island of Elba with 23 persons aboard.

The French and Italian air forces cooperated in the search.

The plane, en route from Geneva to Rome, Athens and Cairo ran into a severe storm over the Tuscan archipelago Thursday. The aircraft's last report, a routine advisory, was made as it approached Elba.

The Misrair Airline office in Rome declined to give the names of 17 passengers and six crew members aboard. Nine were reportedly bound for Rome and the rest, said to be Egyptians or Greeks, were destined for Athens and Cairo.

Beset By Long Strike

Directors Of Treadwell Close Plant At Midland

Union Told Facility Is Up For Sale

81 Workers Idled Since Jan. 26 Told 'Look For New Jobs'

The Treadwell Construction Co. at Midland, beset by a series of unsolved labor strikes which it said impaired its competitive position, has decided to close permanently and will offer its plant facilities for sale or rent through brokers.

F. G. Gramm, president of the half-century old steel fabricating concern, confirmed the step today, revealing the Board of Directors had decreed the closing Sept. 15.

The firm notified about 81 employes of the action, suggesting that they seek other jobs, and told United Steelworkers District 20 that the federal mediation service has been advised there is no longer any need for further bargaining sessions.

The letter to Local 1274, representing employes, advised the men to pick up their personal belongings at the gate house, and the notice to the district official, Joseph Krivan of Midland, pointed out that the Board of Director's decision "was final."

Besides the some 80 production workers, the shutdown affects the office staff. The union struck in July 1959 during the industrywide steel stoppage and workers returned to their jobs Nov. 13 under a 70-day extension of the previous contract. The strike was resumed Jan. 26.

Negotiations were held frequently with the U. S. Mediation and Conciliation Service participating but nothing developed. There was much bitterness at times as the union accused the firm of subletting government contracts, thus depriving the local's men of employment, and a congressional inquiry was requested.

No comment was available from the union since staff representatives were not at the Midland union hall and Kay Kluz, acting director of District 20, is out of town and not expected back until Monday.

In its letter to the United Steelworkers Union, the company said: "This is to advise you that the U.N. Observers Say Sudden Tantrums Planned As Strategy

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Conviction is growing among U.N. observers that Nikita Khrushchev's spectacular outbursts, far from being spontaneous tantrums, are coldly planned and calculated instruments of Soviet strategy. But the strategy is backfiring, they say.

"Khrushchev has badly misjudged the mood of this Assembly session," said one source close to the African delegates.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain, in his coolly reasonable exposition of the world's key issues, apparently struck a telling blow for the West in the propaganda cold war, if the reactions of the majority of delegates are any barometer. His approach caused Khrushchev, apparently, to fall into a trap of his own making.

Khrushchev had a good idea of what to expect in the speech by Macmillan—the ranking spokesman on hand for the Western alliance. And he knew Macmillan would have an attentive audience. Minutes before the day's debating began, Khrushchev caucused with his Communist satellite leaders.

As the Soviet Premier may have expected, Macmillan captured the mood of the delegates and adroitly appealed to it with the attitude of a man calmly approaching solemn deliberations on life-or-death issues.

And Macmillan had reasonable proposals, proposals that might provide a hopeful path toward easing tensions.

Khrushchev set out, say some observers, first to intrude on that mood of reasonableness, and second to capture the center of the world stage again, so that proposals advanced by Macmillan on behalf of the West would be buried in a mass of spectacular publicity for the Russian's antics. But from comments heard after the meeting, it seemed that his actions had left only a sense of shock among many delegates.

This performance, and the belligerent language Khrushchev used after the speech was over, strengthened the impression held by many that his mission in New York is not to reach agreements, but to mark time, to fight a holding action for world communism, which is unready to move aggressively in today's dangerous circumstances.

Many recalled previous Khrushchev outbursts. There was the "toothache" incident, when Macmillan was in Moscow in February 1959 and was considered to be making progress in delicate negotiations with the Soviets. Suddenly Khrushchev issued an enormous blast at Western policy and then further affronted Macmillan by pleading a toothache and avoiding meeting with the British leader.

Two outbursts that at the time looked like tantrums occurred in Los Angeles and New York, during Khrushchev's tour of the United States, when he gloweringly threatened to pack up and go home unless his audiences listened to him respectfully.

He put on another show in Paris when he exploded the summit conference last May before it could get started. He had no place to go but backward so far as the key issues of Berlin and West Germany were concerned, and he could not afford a showdown. He voided it by making sure there would be no summit meeting.

A man throwing a spontaneous tantrum does not smile merrily as Khrushchev did Monday when he was thumping the table in protest against Dag Hammarskjold's defense of the secretary-general's office.

And Thursday, in the opinion of Canadian Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker, Khrushchev once again "was enjoying his interruption."

U.N. Buzzes Over K's Heckling

Reds Mount Counterattack Aimed At Macmillan Talk

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Communist bloc mounted a swift counterattack today against British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's hard-hitting address while the U.N. still buzzed with shock over Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's heckling of the Western leader.

Poland's Communist chief, Wladyslaw Gomulka, unexpectedly took the stage as the General Assembly resumed its debate and accused Macmillan of supporting a militarist West German policy which he said had designs on Poland's territory.

Gomulka spoke under the Assembly's "right of reply" procedure.

Macmillan had defended West Germany Thursday against Soviet charges that it harbors militarist aims. The Briton's speech had moved the Soviet premier to violent outbursts of table-thumping protest.

Macmillan met later more than two hours with Khrushchev and neither leader budged an inch from his stated positions on outstanding issues. But Macmillan abruptly canceled plans to go home, deciding to remain an extra week to await a possible return call from Khrushchev. He is expected also to report to President Eisenhower on his talks.

Gomulka pitched his counterattack entirely to charges against Chanellor Konrad Adenauer's West German regime, which he said is asking "again for equality in arms.

"Her Western allies yield step by step to their demands," Gomulka insisted.

The 98-nation Assembly, meanwhile, called a special Saturday session for the purpose of approving the 15th session's agenda, and bitter debate on the outstanding issues is in prospect.

Khrushchev kept busy at his personal diplomacy, arranging a luncheon for 20 heads of government but leaving out Britain's Macmillan.

The Soviet leader was expected to pick up some important neutral support for his proposal to revamp the U.N.'s peace-making structure.

President Sukarno of Indonesia, the first speaker of the afternoon, is pictured as favoring some sort of U.N. administrative shakeup which will make it representative of the world's blocs.

Khrushchev has proposed a veto-wielding secretariat of three members, Communist, neutral and Western, to replace Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's office.

Sensation followed sensation at the U. N., making this session of the General Assembly the most extraordinary — and apparently the most dangerous — in its history.

Khrushchev was talking and acting tougher than ever.

Eisenhower may return to New York for the third time since the Assembly started, U. S. officials said.

Macmillan was to have sailed for London Saturday. An aide said instead he will stay in New York through next week. His departure date is now uncertain.

President Sukarno of Indonesia, addresses the General Assembly today. He came prepared to discuss disarmament and to propose means of melting the ice in the cold war.

U.S. To Close Nickel Plant It Has In Cuba

Considers Use Of Economic Sanctions In Deepening Strife

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is considering the use of economic sanctions in its deepening conflict with the Cuban government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

These plans, calling for export controls on a limited number of items, may follow up a U.S. decision Thursday night to close down the $110-million nickel processing plant it owns and operates in Cuba's Oriente province.

The World War II plant, operated steadily since the Korean War, now employs or contributes to employment of 2,800 Cubans, who presumably will lose their jobs.

The State Department said the operation has been harrassed by the Castro regime and subjected to what it called confiscatory taxes due to go into effect Saturday. The Cuban government rejected a U.S. offer to pay "a reasonable tax" on nickel shipments from the plant, the department said.

There were these other developments indicative of the tightening of the Cuban situation:

1. The State Department said all American men in Cuba are being advised to send their wives and children back to the United States to avoid harassment by Cuban authorities.

2. The Castro government, in a new diplomatic rebuff, refused to accept a U.S. note protesting nationalization of American-owned banks in Cuba.

Although both the nickel plant closure and the proposed export controls would affect the Cuban economy, there was no direct relation between them.

Castro Brands Nixon, Kennedy Ignorant Kids

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Bearded, 34-year-old Fidel Castro today attacked Richard M. Nixon, 47, and John F. Kennedy, 43, as "two illiterate, ignorant, beardless kids."

This was only one of the insults that the Cuban Prime Minister hurled at the two American presidential candidates in expanding the attack he was not permitted to continue before the U.N. General Assembly.

"I'm sure that if (Soviet Premier) Khrushchev spent six months in the United States, he would get more votes than Kennedy," Castro declared in an unscheduled post-midnight television appearance.

U.S.-Soviet Summit Talks Are Proposed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Saudi Arabia today proposed a summit meeting between the United States and the Soviet Union with neutralist leaders sitting in.

Ahmad Shukairy, head of the Saudi Arabian delegation, made the proposal in a speech prepared for delivery before the U.N. General Assembly.

Shukairy said there was little point in another Big Four meeting since the Paris summit conference had proved a failure.

"The United Kingdom and France, with all due respect, have little to say when the United States is in a summit conference. The two giants, the United States and the Soviet Union, can talk to each other with full authority as representing two dramatically opposed worlds," Shukairy declared. "But the two giants should not be left alone."

Shukairy proposed that the meeting include "leaders who have distinguished themselves not only as national heroes, but also as international figures dedicated to the cause of justice and peace."

Shukairy did not say who he believed should take part, but he apparently referred to such men as President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, President Tito of Yugoslavia and Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Republicans Expect 1,200 For Ox Roast

Over 1,200 are expected at a Columbiana County Republican ox roast and rally Saturday at the Lisbon Fairgrounds at which Dr. Arthur Flemming, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, will speak.

A member of the cabinet of President Dwight Eisenhower since 1958, Dr. Flemming will address the party political rally about 8:15.

The free, countywide rally will start at 4 p. m. with a baseball game, followed by the luncheon from 5 to 7 at the Floral Hall. A 910-pound steer will be roasted.

There will be music by a German band, and a program by Vic Hyde, professional trumpeter. The rally is sponsored by the county GOP Central Committee.

Nixon, Lodge Are Praised By President

Declares Country Wants Leadership From Trained Team

CHICAGO (AP) — President Eisenhower says the country wants "leadership from a trained team" not "leadership that sees only dark continents of despair in American life."

Eisenhower left this campaign slogan for the Republican presidential and vice-presidential candidates, Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge, with Illinois party workers Thursday night.

He takes time out today after his first full-fledged political speech of the presidential campaign, to fly to Denver and attend funeral services for Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Elivera Doud.

Eisenhower's first big effort for the Republican ticket won him a roaring reception Thursday night from the audience at a fund-raising dinner. It was also carried by closed-circuit television to some 35 similar gatherings in other parts of the country.

He planned to address the Polish American Congress before taking off by jet for Denver.

Eisenhower heaped praise on Nixon as "possessor of a vast richness of experience in domestic affairs, foreign relations and person-to-person diplomacy. His counsel has been invaluable to me."

The President obviously was out to counter interpretations deregatory to Nixon placed on an off-the-cuff reply by Eisenhower several weeks ago to a reporter's question about major decisions to which Nixon contributed. Eisenhower suggested he be given a week to think of one.

Republican diners loved it when Eisenhower said he wanted to "set the record straight—and certainly no one is in a better position to do so."

Nixon, he said, "has participated with me and high officials of your government in hundreds of important deliberative proceedings of the Cabinet, National Security Council and other agencies." He said Nixon was "a person ready to enter the duties of the presidential office . . . has the broadest and deepest preparation and experience of any man I know."

The audience cheered and clapped at that appraisal, clapped and whistled when Eisenhower said, "Leadership is not proved by a mere whirling across the public stage in a burst of glib oratory."

Union Replies To Firms' Bid For Wage Cut

The potters' union today issued a reply to a manufacturer's proposal that workers accept a 6-cent hourly pay cut when the two sides meet in New York City, beginning Tuesday, to write a new working agreement covering dinnerware plants.

The proposal issued by the U. S. Potters Association Sept. 23, along with a statement backing it up, is "an old familiar cry that would furnish the lyrics for a swan song when the industry goes into oblivion," the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters asserted.

One of the USPA's proposals for the bargaining session asks employes to take a 6-cent cut by rolling wages back to the levels set in the 1957 contract. It said the industry has been declining and faces a fight for survival because of rising wage costs and competition from foreign imports and non-union domestic potteries.

"Many, many times over a span of years we have been told our people would benefit and the industry would survive by accepting a proposal for a wage reduction in lieu of establishing a wage standard comparable to that paid employes in other industries," the IBOP statement said.

"International officials and the entire membership of the IBOP are deeply concerned over the plight of the pottery industry. We have exercised every means at our command to secure a fair and just tariff and establish a quota against the imports. Thousands of dollars of Brotherhood funds

The Treadwell Construction Co. at Midland, beset by a series of unsolved labor strikes which it said impaired its competitive position, has decided to close permanently and will offer its plant facilities for sale or rent through brokers.

He voided it by making sure there would be no summit meeting.

A man throwing a spontaneous tantrum does not smile merrily as Khrushchev did Monday when he was thumping the table in protest against Dag Hammarskjold's defense of the secretary-general's office.

And Thursday, in the opinion of Canadian Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker, Khrushchev once again "was enjoying his interruption."

U.N. Buzzes Over K's Heckling

Reds Mount Counterattack Aimed At Macmillan Talk

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Communist bloc mounted a swift counterattack today against British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's hard-hitting address while the U.N. still buzzed with shock over Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's heckling of the Western leader.

Poland's Communist chief, Wladyslaw Gomulka, unexpectedly took the stage as the General Assembly resumed its debate and accused Macmillan of supporting a militarist West German policy which he said had designs on Poland's territory.

Gomulka spoke under the Assembly's "right of reply" procedure.

Macmillan had defended West Germany Thursday against Soviet charges that it harbors militarist aims. The Briton's speech had moved the Soviet premier to violent outbursts of table-thumping protest.

Macmillan met later more than two hours with Khrushchev and neither leader budged an inch from his stated positions on outstanding issues. But Macmillan abruptly canceled plans to go home, deciding to remain an extra week to await a possible return call from Khrushchev. He is expected also to report to President Eisenhower on his talks.

Gomulka pitched his counterattack entirely to charges against Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's West German regime, which he said is asking "again for equality in arms.

"Her Western allies yield step by step to their demands," Gomulka insisted.

The 99-nation Assembly, meanwhile, called a special Saturday session for the purpose of approving the 15th session's agenda, and bitter debate on the outstanding issues is in prospect.

Khrushchev kept busy at his personal diplomacy, arranging a luncheon for 20 heads of government but leaving out Britain's Macmillan.

The Soviet leader was expected to pick up some important neutral support for his proposal to revamp the U.N.'s peace-making structure.

President Sukarno of Indonesia, the first speaker of the afternoon, is pictured as favoring some sort of U.N. administrative shakeup which will make it representative of the world's blocs.

Khrushchev has proposed a veto-wielding secretariat of three members, Communist, neutral and Western, to replace Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's office.

Sensation followed sensation at the U. N., making this session of the General Assembly the most extraordinary — and apparently the most dangerous — in its history.

Khrushchev was talking and acting tougher than ever.

Eisenhower may return to New York for the third time since the Assembly started, U. S. officials said.

Macmillan was to have sailed for London Saturday. An aide said instead he will stay in New York through next week. His departure date is now uncertain.

President Sukarno of Indonesia, addresses the General Assembly today. He came prepared to discuss disarmament and to propose means of melting the ice in the cold war.

U.S. To Close Nickel Plant It Has In Cuba

Considers Use Of Economic Sanctions In Deepening Strife

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is considering the use of economic sanctions in its deepening conflict with the Cuban government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

These plans, calling for export controls on a limited number of items, may follow up a U.S. decision Thursday night to close down the $110-million nickel processing plant it owns and operates in Cuba's Oriente province.

The World War II plant, operated steadily since the Korean War, now employs or contributes to employment of 2,000 Cubans, who presumably will lose their jobs.

The State Department said the operation has been harrassed by the Castro regime and subjected to what it called confiscatory taxes due to go into effect Saturday. The Cuban government rejected a U.S. offer to pay "a reasonable tax" on nickel shipments from the plant, the department said.

There were these other developments indicative of the tightening of the Cuban situation:

1. The State Department said all American men in Cuba are being advised to send their wives and children back to the United States to avoid harassment by Cuban authorities.

2. The Castro government, in a new diplomatic rebuff, refused to accept a U.S. note protesting nationalization of American-owned banks in Cuba.

Although both the nickel plant closure and the proposed export controls would affect the Cuban economy, there was no direct relation between them.

Castro Brands Nixon, Kennedy Ignorant Kids

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Bearded, 34-year-old Fidel Castro today attacked Richard M. Nixon, 47, and John F. Kennedy, 43, as "two illiterate, ignorant, beardless kids."

This was only one of the insults that the Cuban Prime Minister hurled at the two American presidential candidates in expanding the attack he was not permitted to continue before the U.N. General Assembly.

"I'm sure that if (Soviet Premier) Khrushchev spent six months in the United States, he would get more votes than Kennedy," Castro declared in an unscheduled post-midnight television appearance.

U.S.-Soviet Summit Talks Are Proposed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Saudi Arabia today proposed a summit meeting between the United States and the Soviet Union with neutralist leaders sitting in.

Ahmad Shukairy, head of the Saudi Arabian delegation, made the proposal in a speech prepared for delivery before the U.N. General Assembly.

Shukairy said there was little point in another Big Four meeting since the Paris summit conference had proved a failure.

"The United Kingdom and France, with all due respect, have little to say when the United States is in a summit conference. The two giants, the United States and the Soviet Union, can talk to each other with full authority as representing two dramatically opposed worlds," Shukairy declared. "But the two giants should not be left alone."

Shukairy proposed that the meeting include "leaders who have distinguished themselves not only as national heroes, but also as international figures dedicated to the cause of justice and peace."

Shukairy did not say who he believed should take part, but he apparently referred to such men as President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, President Tito of Yugoslavia and Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Republicans Expect 1,200 For Ox Roast

Over 1,200 are expected at a Columbiana County Republican ox roast and rally Saturday at the Lisbon Fairgrounds at which Dr. Arthur Flemming, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, will speak.

A member of the cabinet of President Dwight Eisenhower since 1958, Dr. Flemming will address the party political rally about 8:15.

The free, countywide rally will start at 4 p. m. with a baseball game, followed by the luncheon from 5 to 7 at the Floral Hall. A 900-pound steer will be roasted.

There will be music by a German band, and a program by Vic Hyde, professional trumpeter. The rally is sponsored by the county GOP Central Committee.

Nixon, Lodge Are Praised By President

Declares Country Wants Leadership From Trained Team

CHICAGO (AP) — President Eisenhower says the country wants "leadership from a trained team" not "leadership that sees only dark continents of despair in American life."

Eisenhower left this campaign slogan for the Republican presidential and vice-presidential candidates, Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge, with Illinois party workers Thursday night.

He takes time out today after his first full-fledged political speech of the presidential campaign, to fly to Denver and attend funeral services for Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Elivera Doud.

Eisenhower's first big effort for the Republican ticket won him a roaring reception Thursday night from the audience at a fund-raising dinner. It was also carried by closed-circuit television to some 35 similar gatherings in other parts of the country.

He planned to address the Polish American Congress before taking off by jet for Denver.

Eisenhower heaped praise on Nixon as "possessor of a vast richness of experience in domestic affairs, foreign relations and person-to-person diplomacy. His counsel has been invaluable to me."

The President obviously was out to counter interpretations derogatory to Nixon placed on an off-the-cuff reply by Eisenhower several weeks ago to a reporter's question about major decisions to which Nixon contributed. Eisenhower suggested he be given a week to think of one.

Republican diners loved it when Eisenhower said he wanted to "set the record straight—and certainly no one is in a better position to do so."

Nixon, he said, "has participated with me and high officials of your government in hundreds of important deliberative proceedings of the Cabinet, National Security Council and other agencies." He said Nixon was "a person ready to enter the duties of the presidential office . . . has the broadest and deepest preparation and experience of any man I know."

The audience cheered and clapped at that appraisal, clapped and whistled when Eisenhower said, "Leadership is not proved by a mere whirling across the public stage in a burst of glib oratory."

Treadwell

Board of Directors of Treadwell Construction Co. has voted to permanently discontinue operations of the company's Midland plant.

"This decision is final. The physical properties at Midland will be placed in the hands of brokers for immediate sale or rental.

"You will recall that on July 22, 1960, we earnestly requested your union to accept our proposal for a new, long-term labor agreement similar to the terms and provisions of the agreement negotiated between your union and the Pittsburgh-DesMoines Steel Co., or a substantially equivalent agreement, which would place our Midland plant in a competitive position.

"Throughout the long and protracted negotiations, we have tried in every reasonable way, by explanation and by factual data, to point out to your union the economic and competitive problems that face the Midland plant.

"Apparently, your union is either unwilling or unable to help us solve these problems. In any event, we have failed in all of our efforts to reach an agreement which put us in a competitive position so that we could operate in a profitable manner, and the offer which we made to your union on July 22, 1960, is hereby withdrawn.

"We have reached the decision to shut down the Midland plant after a great deal of thought and with the utmost reluctance. However, we are now convinced that we cannot continue operations in view of the worsened competitive and economic position in which the present strike and the long 1959 strike have placed the company.

"Accordingly, since we have reached the decision to permanently discontinue operations of the Midland plant, there is no longer any need for further bargaining sessions, and we are so advising the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and the Pennsylvania State Mediators."

In its letter to its employes, the company said:

"The Board of Directors has decided to permanently discontinue operations of the company's Midland plant. All employes are advised to seek employment elsewhere.

"Enclosed with this letter is a copy of the company's notification to the United Steelworkers of America explaining our reasons for the decision.

"It is requested that you immediately contact our gate house and arrange through them with your former supervisor to remove all personal possessions from the company plant and property, which will be delivered to you at the gate house.

"It is with deep regret that we take this action. If the company can be of any service to you in obtaining employment elsewhere, please do not hesitate to call us."

Both letters were signed by Gramm.

The company has occupied the Midland property for almost 52 years and was chartered in July 1909, and formerly known as the Midland Barge Co.

Some of its barges and towboats still are in operation on the Ohio River. High costs turned the company to other fields.

During World War II, the firm received seven Navy "E's" for general performance. It manufactured 240-mm. howitzers, 155-mm. Long Tom guns and 5 inch Navy guns and also large gun mount rings among other items.

During the Korean War, it made an atomic cannon and Honest John rocket launchers.

The company made the gantry and launching towers for the Viking and Corporal missiles used at White Sands, N. M., which the company redesigned for use in the Vanguard project at Cape Canaveral.

The largest and recent craft made by the company were the Navy "BARCS", eight of which are being used in the Formosa-Quemoy area in the China Sea and four in the Arctic for the Dew-line and early warning system. The BARCS weigh 100 ton.

Gramm has been president of the firm since 1949 and was executive vice president from 1939 to 1949. He has been with the firm since 1928.

Peak employment was about 800 in the mid-1930's when the firm operated as the barge company.

In the late 1940's, employment dropped to about 200 to 250 and in the late 1950's to less than 150.

Grafton Heads Health Board

John H. Grafton was elected president of the Wellsville Board of Health at a reorganization Thursday evening.

He succeeds William E. Smith, who resigned last April after serving about 14 years. Grafton will serve out the balance of the term, Dec. 31.

Mrs. Jean Tipton, R. N., was appointed city nurse. Two appointed to the board are John Minor, a retired railroader, and William Woolley, a retired mill worker. They replace A. J. Bjelke, who resigned and moved to Florida, and Lloyd Jenkins, who transferred to Pittsburgh.

The meeting night was changed from the last Friday to the last Thursday of the month. Other members of the board are W. J. Palmer and Nick Puch. Dr. Gustave Peller is health commissioner, O. B. Kessel, sanitary officer, and Otto D. Dustman, clerk.

Mrs. Tipton had been appointed school nurse last week to succeed Mrs. Jeannie Calhoun, who also held the joint post of health nurse.

U.N.

It was reported also that he would advocate seating Communist China in the U. N., despite Indonesia's recent troubles with Red China over laws curtailing Chinese merchants in Indonesia.

Sukarno met Thursday night with Indian Prime Minster Nehru, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, President Tito of Yugoslavia, and President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana.

While they were talking, Macmillan went to the headquarters of the Soviet delegation to see Khrushchev.

Earlier, Khrushchev had given the General Assembly a totally new experience while Macmillan was speaking. The Russian pounded the desk in apparent anger, rose from his seat to gesticulate and broke in on Macmillan with shouted remarks in Russian.

Some listeners thought he yelled out, "Don't commit aggression!" Others understood him to say, "Don't send over any more U2s!" There were varying interpretations of his bellowed remarks about disarmament.

But there was no disagreement that he had ripped the diplomatic book of etiquette to shreds, with a performance comparable to slurping soup at a white-tie dinner.

Macmillan took it with cool disdain. He reacted only to say, "I would like to have a translation of those remarks." Assembly President Frederick H. Boland of Ireland finally gaveled Khrushchev back into his seat.

Observers noted that Khrushchev had sat like a stone, motionless and silent, during Eisenhower's speech last week.

Before Macmillan arrived for his evening appointment with the Soviet leader, Khrushchev came out in the rain-swept streets to talk to reporters—as he usually does.

"I hold out little hope in this meeting with Macmillan," he said.

He compared Macmillan to Britain's Prime Minister Nevelle Chamberlain, who signed the Munich agreement with Adolf Hitler. And he likened Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany to Hitler.

"Adenauer is preparing for war," he asserted.

Then he trained his guns on Eisenhower: "The President himself says he will continue to send planes over our territory, and we'll continue to shoot them down. What good does this do? We want friendly relations, and we want to negotiate for this friendship."

He ducked the question, as usual, of whether he would see Eisenhower. But he did say, "I am here in New York, not in Moscow."

Macmillan and Lord Home, the British foreign secretary, arrived shortly after 6 o'clock.

The conference went on for more than two hours.

John Russell, Macmillan's press secretary, later told newsmen, "Each side expressed their views and held to them."

Last year 556 Canadians lost their lives in fires. Of that number 233 were children.

The second indictment charged Rogers with breaking and entering the Capital Bar in Weirton. The second indictment was nolled.

"Enclosed with this letter is a copy of the company's notification to the United Steelworkers of America explaining our reasons for the decision.

"It is requested that you immediately contact our gate house and arrange through them with your former supervisor to remove all personal possessions from the company plant and property, which will be delivered to you at the gate house.

"It is with deep regret that we take this action. If the company can be of any service to you in obtaining employment elsewhere, please do not hesitate to call us."

Both letters were signed by Gramm.

The company has occupied the Midland property for almost 52 years and was chartered in July 1909, and formerly known as the Midland Barge Co.

Some of its barges and towboats still are in operation on the Ohio River. High costs turned the company to other fields.

During World War II, the firm received seven Navy "E's" for general performance. It manufactured 240-mm. howitzers, 155-mm. Long Tom guns and 5 inch Navy guns and also large gun mount rings among other items.

During the Korean War, it made an atomic cannon and Honest John rocket launchers.

The company made the gantry and launching towers for the Viking and Corporal missiles used at White Sands, N. M., which the company redesigned for use in the Vanguard project at Cape Canaveral.

The largest and recent craft made by the company were the Navy "BARCS", eight of which are being used in the Formosa-Quemoy area in the China Sea and four in the Arctic for the Dew-line and early warning system. The BARCS weigh 100 ton.

Gramm has been president of the firm since 1949 and was executive vice president from 1939 to 1949. He has been with the firm since 1928.

Peak employment was about 800 in the mid-1930's when the firm operated as the barge company. In the late 1940's, employment dropped to about 200 to 250 and in the late 1950's to less than 150.

Grafton Heads Health Board

John H. Grafton was elected president of the Wellsville Board of Health at a reorganization Thursday evening.

He succeeds William E. Smith, who resigned last April after serving about 14 years. Grafton will serve out the balance of the term, Dec. 31.

Mrs. Jean Tipton, R. N., was appointed city nurse. Two appointed to the board are John Minor, a retired railroader, and William Woolley, a retired mill worker. They replace A. J. Bjelke, who resigned and moved to Florida, and Lloyd Jenkins, who transferred to Pittsburgh.

The meeting night was changed from the last Friday to the last Thursday of the month. Other members of the board are W. J. Palmer and Nick Puch. Dr. Gustave Peller is health commissioner, O. B. Kessel, sanitary officer, and Otto D. Dustman, clerk.

Mrs. Tipton had been appointed school nurse last week to succeed Mrs. Jeannie Calhoun, who also held the joint post of health nurse.

It was reported also that he would advocate seating Communist China in the U. N., despite Indonesia's recent troubles with Red China over laws curtailing Chinese merchants in Indonesia.

Sukarno met Thursday night with Indian Prime Minster Nehru, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, President Tito of Yugoslavia, and President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana.

While they were talking, Macmillan went to the headquarters of the Soviet delegation to see Khrushchev.

Earlier, Khrushchev had given the General Assembly a totally new experience while Macmillan was speaking. The Russian pounded the desk in apparent anger, rose from his seat to gesticulate and broke in on Macmillan with shouted remarks in Russian.

Some listeners thought he yelled out, "Don't commit aggression!" Others understood him to say, "Don't send over any more U2s!" There were varying interpretations of his bellowed remarks about disarmament.

But there was no disagreement that he had ripped the diplomatic book of etiquette to shreds, with a performance comparable to slurping soup at a white-tie dinner.

Macmillan took it with cool disdain. He reacted only to say, "I would like to have a translation of those remarks." Assembly President Frederick H. Boland of Ireland finally gaveled Khrushchev back into his seat.

Observers noted that Khrushchev had sat like a stone, motionless and silent, during Eisenhower's speech last week.

Before Macmillan arrived for his evening appointment with the Soviet leader, Khrushchev came out in the rain-swept streets to talk to reporters—as he usually does.

"I hold out little hope in this meeting with Macmillan," he said.

He compared Macmillan to Britain's Prime Minister Nevelle Chamberlain, who signed the Munich agreement with Adolf Hitler. And he likened Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany to Hitler.

"Adenauer is preparing for war," he asserted.

Then he trained his guns on Eisenhower: "The President himself says he will continue to send planes over our territory, and we'll continue to shoot them down. What good does this do? We want friendly relations, and we want to negotiate for this friendship."

He ducked the question, as usual, of whether he would see Eisenhower. But he did say, "I am here in New York, not in Moscow."

Macmillan and Lord Home, the British foreign secretary, arrived shortly after 6 o'clock.

The conference went on for more than two hours.

John Russell, Macmillan's press secretary, later told newsmen, "Each side expressed their views and held to them."

Man Receives Prison Term

A Jefferson County man was sentenced to 1-10 years in the West Virginia State Penitentiary at Moundsville Thursday in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland.

Jack Louis Rogers, 26, of Richmond, Ohio and also Weirton, was sentenced by Judge J. Harold Brennan after changing his plea from innocent to guilty of breaking and entering a Weirton tavern.

Rogers was indicted by the April Grand Jury and later got into trouble again while still under the first indictment, the county sheriff's office said.

The second indictment charged Rogers with breaking and entering the Capital Bar in Weirton. The second indictment was nolled.

Rogers still is in the County Jail in New Cumberland, awaiting transfer to Moundsville.

One criminal case was on the docket for today in Circuit Court. Most hearings and trials for those indicted by the September Grand Jury have been continued until Nov. 12-13, the sheriff's office said.

Tomorrow It May Be Squirt Guns

There's only one thing wrong with the idea that people like Stalin and Khrushchev, who say and do things that shock the West, are crude characters who never were housebroken.

They do nothing that is not deliberate.

They resist being housebroken for their own good reasons. They know better.

Their judgment has revealed to them and their advisers that what the Americans say is true: "Nice guys never win."

They are out to win, catch as catch can.

They are not trying to win a popularity contest. They are hopeful of winning a world.

Even if they could live a thousand years, there would not be time to install their brand of socialism with Fabian tactics, the way the British socialists tried to do it.

That isn't the Communist idea.

The Communist idea is to beat their ideology into its victims, then beat the work out of them. The Communist Conspiracy doesn't make converts. It captures converts.

EVERY TIME Nikita Khrushchev can think up a new way to needle the West, he gets more headlines and more TV camera time.

His latest stunt was to heckle the head lion of the British Empire during Prime Minister Macmillan's full-dress speech before the General Assembly of the United Nations Thursday.

This has been his most successful move to date, next to the worldwide attention he commanded by embracing and kissing Cuba's Fidel Castro, who either is singing "The Internationale" for his supper or for his life, depending on whether you think he is a revolutionist or a counter-revolutionist.

It was way out ahead of the desk-thumping act he and his companions put on when General Assemblymen were applauding President Eisenhower.

There was no comparison between it and the balcony scenes and quickie press and television conferences he has been putting on whenever he thought it was time to pull out the publicity stops and play another cadenza on the organ of publicity.

Certainly it beat the gold-plate bread-breaking with Cyrus Eaton and the businessmen—because that, in a way, was Eaton's way of stirring up the animals, not Khrushchev's.

BUT THIS SORT of thing always raises the question of an encore. Khrushchev has to top his own act.

So tomorrow it may be squirt guns smuggled into the General Assembly, pulled out of pockets and used to drench the other delegates with attar of borsch.

There still are people who think Khrushchev is hanging around New York until his spaceniks can shoot a man into orbit and bring him back alive. That would give him top-banana prestige for at least a fortnight. Meanwhile, he must keep from being inconspicuous.

It is like the show business adage that said, "I don't care what you say about me, but spell my name right." The name is Khrushchev — K-H-R-U-S-H-C-H-E-V.

The name of the fellow he interrupted was Macmillan. He is Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, but his speech will be overlooked in the hysteria over the way he was rudely interrupted by the Premier of the Soviet Union.

If Khrushchev ever gets thrown out of the Kremlin, he should come to New York and set up a public relations firm. For a modest retainer he'd get his client's name before the public once every 24 hours. The guy's unstoppable.

Figures In The Background

The death of Mrs. Eisenhower's 82-year-old mother in Denver on Thursday has turned many thoughts to the relationship between leading political personalities and the figures in the background.

Harry Truman's elderly mother and Mrs. Truman's women friends from Independence, Mo., were important, if only occasional, White House personalities. Franklin D. Roosevelt's mother was rarely seen and rarely quoted and never stayed in the White House, but no one doubted the impact of her personality on her son.

In President Eisenhower's own family, his brothers have been background figures, frequently present but rarely making their presence felt. But in Mrs. Eisenhower's family, Elivera Doud of Denver was to become in a modest way the most famous mother-in-law of her day.

The president was a frequent visitor in her home. She lived in the White House for a time and even rode the campaign train. Dwight Eisenhower was the kind of son-in-law who could call a mother-in-law by the nickname "Min" and make it seem natural.

And by all accounts "Min" was the kind of mother-in-law who would expect to be addressed that way because she shared with daughter Mamie the conviction that "Ike" was the best soldier-politician who ever peered down a rifle barrel or over the top of a pair of reading glasses.

It isn't the easiest thing in the world for the families behind politicians to be there without being so much there they become figures in the foreground, instead of in the background.

Mrs. Doud, the most famous mother-in-law of her day, was always there, though not one American in a million could have identified her by sight or quoted her on anything she ever said.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Setting, direction and mood projected by first TV Kennedy-Nixon debate was so lacking in warmth and expressiveness that millions of voters got the impression they were listening to debate between Nanook of North and Sgt. Preston of the Yukon. First debate was staged in a studio once used as ice-rink. (It is still an ice rink to the audience.)

Nobody would have been surprised if in a grand climax Sen. Kennedy skated off the stage, Dick Nixon bowed out on showshoes and the assembled quizzers turned around to face audience disguised as late Admiral Peary and party.

Here were two candidates for the highest office in America nearing the peak of momentous campaign, supposedly debating in spirit of colorful Lincoln-Douglas series, yet Kennedy and Nixon looked grim, made cold figures on a bare stage and should sue CBS over the closeups. Nixon could collect heavy damages. Cameramen seemed to go all out to project him as understudy to Boris Karloff. (Could this be a Democratic plot?)

Question: What's attractive about quizzers' backs of heads? The interviewers were not hiding from the FBI. They hadn't "beat" their wives. They are not bad lookers. They sat, backs to audience, giving the impression questions were coming from a waxworks.

General atmosphere should have been credited to Baffins Bay Dramatic Association and Klondike Little Theater Group. Both candidates seemed trapped in a deep freeze unit and fearful the director (if any) would throw in a handful of artificial snow.

In such a desolate ex-ice rink, why couldn't some TV genius have had the imagination to put up a drop-curtain in warm colors with scenes recalling torchlight parades, Lincoln-Douglas debates, and perhaps a voting booth?

This looked like all-out effort by TV to kill any belief Dick and Jack were doing an airwave revival of "The Happiness Boys."

TEAMSTERS UNION has followed up its investment in its own Florida vacation resort by buying Everglades Hotel in Miami. It has interest in other Miami Beach hotels. Theme song of all its hotel orchestras should be "Wagon Wheels."

If anybody at Cy Eaton's dinner for Khrushchev had said, "I'm so hungry I could eat a horse," Cleveland millionaire might have ordered waiter to serve one of the three presented him by Khrushchev last year. It would have busted up dinner if orchestra had played "I'm A Yankee Doodle Dandy" during Eaton's speech.

Khrushchev pounds on a table at the U.N. when angry. Probably wants U.N. location changed to POUND Ridge, Conn.

In our book, one of best speeches in U.N. was by John Diefenbaker, Canadian delegate. "Mr. Khrushchev says it will always be the Soviet position that countries should establish their own systems of own free will," he declared in one great paragraph. "What of Lithuania, Estonia, Latvia? What of freedom-loving Ukranians, and other Eastern Europe peoples?" (Why do U.S. speakers lack similar wallop?)

Emily Post, dead at 87, once defended doughnut dunking and elbows on table. Of dunking she wrote, "Any place having doughnuts would be like a picnic where, short of smearing wet ones from ear to ear, you could do pretty much as you pleased with one." Kerplunk, and thank you.

Nikita, here in the World Series season, may appear on a balcony in baseball uniform, pose as the friend of all nonparticipating baseball teams as underpriviliged, denounce the Yanks as capitalistic exploiters and demand the removal of both leagues to Moscow, Geneva or Budapest in interest of fair play and world peace.

Following this up by proposing that the umpires be replaced by a 20-man committee with veto power. Kept on Manhattan with the series in the Bronx, he could also call upon all club owners to free hotdog and peanut vendors from control of concession operators.

We can hear him roaring, "Why call this a World Series when only the Yanks and Pittsburgh are mentioned? Where are Ghana, the Congo and Cuba?

"The glorification of Casey Stengel is a plot to obscure Lumumba. All peace loving peoples are for the inclusion of underdeveloped baseball areas as represented by Kansas City and Philadelphia.

"I point to the desolate areas of Ebbets Field and the Polo Grounds as proof of what imperialistic powers have done."

Here Fidel Castro embraced him and cried "Yankees no; Pittsburgh yes." Mr. Khrushchev continued, "It is time to disarm the powerful Mickey Mantle and all hitters with an average above .200.

"The need for aid to Baltimore is apparent. There can be no peaceful solution as the World Series is presented today.

"The U.S.S.R. is for a series in which all baseball teams everywhere participate, regardless of their experience or the ratings of those sinister forces, the official scorers.

Asked if he wanted to go to series and throw out the first "brawl," he replied, "The series can do without me, but can I do without the series, in my pitch for complete front page publicity? There is an old Russian proverb, "Where the cameras are thick as sturgeon eggs a showman who stays away gathers no moss.' "

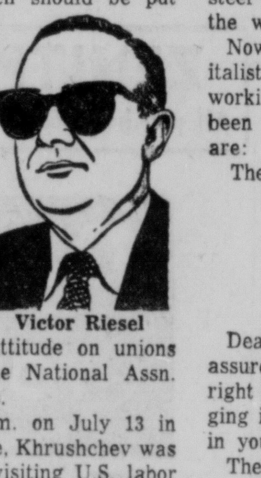
Temporarily Benched

Workers' Rights Reviewed For Mr. K

By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK

Among the private conversations of N. S. Khrushchev which have escaped the public prints, there is one talk which should be put on record now that he has slapped around this creaky old capitalism of ours.



Victor Riesel

On the afternoon to which I refer here, the chairman spoke as the world's biggest employer of labor—and his attitude on unions will fascinate the National Assn. of Manufacturers.

At about 4 a.m. on July 13 in his Kremlin office, Khrushchev was asked by some visiting U.S. labor leaders:

"What is the role of trade unions in top planning and policy-making bodies of the Soviet government?"

In reporting the Soviet leader's reply, the head of the visiting delegation, Joe Curran of the National Maritime Union, said:

"On the question of how trade unions participate in policy-making matters and what they can do in case of disputes, Khrushchev spoke at length on the powers which unions enjoy" in the Socialist fatherland.

The Soviet leader disclosed that the economic program first is drawn up by a planning commission. It is dispatched to the unions.

THEN MR. K revealed what it means to bargain with the top man in the U.S.S.R.

"Sometimes they disagree," said the leader. "They come to the government and say this was done wrongly. We appoint a commission which studies it. Either we agree and accept, which happens most often (sic).

"But you know how unions are. They want always (sic) higher wages and conditions. So we show them our pockets."

At this point Curran reports that Mr. K laughed.

"We show them what we can do and then we make a proposition. Maybe take this this year and maybe some more next year. The unions have great rights on firings and on (production) quotas. I was a worker and I know."

Khrushchev revealed that he had proposed giving the unions authority over all welfare services, instead, I suppose, of burdening the state business trusts with the headaches.

CURRAN'S MEMORANDUM records this gay bit of employer-worker-union relations:

"I said," said Khrushchev smilingly, "why should I take all this complaint. The hell with it! Let the unions take care of it all themselves. From the cradle to the grave — housing, orphan homes, holidays, pensions, sanitoria."

When it comes to the Russian unions' right to strike, Khrushchev said, "People say our unions don't strike. They have the right. Our constitution provides for that. But what is a strike?

"We have no Rockefellers here. We have no private property. All property belongs to society. I am a member of a union. If it was up to me, I could say 'work four hours a day.' But it would be foolish. We must expand our productive forces first.

"How would it be to work four hours a day and have nothing to eat? We have unity of interests between state and unions. . . . Where there is a conflict between director and union, then it goes to a higher standing body. Then the (Communist) party comes into the picture."

THE RECORDS I've seen disclose that the party has constantly ruled against the Russian unions.

Where there have been recent strikes in uranium pits and new steel works, the militia crushed the walkouts.

Now if N.S.K. wants some capitalist statistics about rights of the working people in the U.S. he has been flailing so much, here they are:

There were hundreds of strikes even during the second World War. Between the end of that conflict and this September, labor struck for a total of 577,600,000 man-days.

These walkouts affected vast railroads, giant corporations, probings of outer space and many a defense project.

The chairman of the board of the Soviet trust talks with ill grace about working people and their rights.

Dear Nephew: Your aunt and I assure you that you're on the right track and should keep chugging in the direction you indicated in your letter.

There are things in this world no one can change. Then there are other things that no individual can change. It is useless to stew and fret about such things.

But other things can be changed and should be changed. They need the benefit of someone's interest. The important thing is to know the difference between what can be and can't be changed and to learn to live with the one and get rid of the other.

This is the prayer of Alcoholics Anonymous. But the silly thing is to think it has some special application to people who can't stop drinking once they start.

Their problems are not essentially different from the problems of people who work themselves into hypertension and nervous breakdowns by trying to do the impossible. It's just the alcoholics' bad luck to turn to drink whereas other people stay cold sober while stewing about their frustrations.

Your aunt and I have survived so far without ending up in the booby hatch or the emergency room. We feel that part of our success has been due to the list we keep of things that can't be changed and therefore are not worth fretting about.

Political campaigns don't bug us, for example, because we know we can't change the practice among politicians of jabbing darts into each other to draw blood. We refuse to worry because they do it. Nothing ever will change it. And we also refuse to pay attention to the darts, which is one of the reasons for voter apathy in this country. People are boycotting the politicians.

We cannot change the Castros and Khrushchevs, nor the Nassers, the Nehrus and the Gomulkas. These are standard types in the human race. Their names change as history turns the pages, but they are as easily to classify as Caucasians, Negroes, and Aryans.

We grin and bear 'em like gossips, spendthrifts, ne'er-do-wells, club women, back-slappers and 150 per cent patriots. There's nothing we can do about any of these.

Another thing we are smart enough to let alone is human failure. It comes in all shapes and sizes—people who don't have all their buttons on, people who come apart at the seams before their time, people who took too many blows and went punchy and people like us who weren't any too smart in the first place and haven't improved with age.

We take them in our stride. We don't aim to make silk purses out of sow's ears. And we don't berate ourselves for their hard luck —or for our own. We all have the best we could, and no one can do any more than that.

So you make your list. Write down all the things you don't intend to try to change. In your case, I'd suggest that you start with the weather. Quit grousing about it so much.

Quit complaining because people don't measure up to your specifications. You goofed on the specifications, that's all. You made a blueprint of the impossible.

When you were little, we used to find you in front of the mirror trying to change your face, which was almost as ugly then as it is now. We told you it was no use; that it was the face you were born with and it couldn't be helped. We were wrong about that. But how could we be expected to know then about plastic surgery. Or orthodontia? So, your list must be kept up to date. Right now we're trying to decide whether atomic fallout should be moved from the list of things we can't do anything about.

Don't forget. Make a list. You'll be surprised at the result. Regards to the family. They made their list of things they couldn't change years ago, and weren't you you the lucky one? They decided to take you as you are. Nobody ever tried to improve you. It would have been hopeless.

Rolling Readjustment

By David Lawrence

Economy Seen Meeting Effect Of Steel Strike

"Rolling readjustment" is the phrase that describes the business situation today. It means that the national economy is adjusting itself to a strain imposed upon it by the steel strike last year, and that a period of stability is ahead.

David Lawrence

Secretary of the treasury, Robert B. Anderson, in a speech just delivered before a meeting of the governing boards of three financial institutions of worldwide scope gives a very significant explanation of what is going on in America today.

Though his address is couched in technical phrases, Mr. Anderson makes the point that, when the steel strike came, various businesses began to live off their stockpiles — more often called inventories.

When the strike was over in January of this year, they replenished their stocks not only of steel but of the by-products of steel.

This process of building up inventories is a form of expansion that temporarily stimulates the economy but, when the motivating influence or need is no longer present, the momentum stops.

That's what has happened to the American economy.

SECRETARY ANDERSON describes it this way:

"In the first quarter of 1960, businesses were accumulating inventories at the near-record annual rate of $11.4 billion.

"This rapid rate of accumulation was partly the result of resumption of steel output after a long strike, and partly the result of expectations of limited supply, rising prices and vigorous demand in 1960.

"But, as it became clear in ensuing months that most industrial goods and materials would continue to be readily available at reasonably stable prices, the rate of accumulation began to decrease.

"The available evidence now indicates that inventories are no longer rising but are perhaps declining slightly. Over-all, therefore, the annual rate of inventory spending has fallen by $11 to $12 billion.

"This sharp decline in inventory spending is the key fact in our domestic business picture and accounts for the relative stability of industrial production in 1960, despite a substantial expansion in final demand."

Mr. Anderson points out that the drop in inventory spending is larger than it was in 1957-58 and that it is apparent "that, in the past eight months, we have experienced another major postwar shift in inventory spending."

In contrast with what happened in the recessions of 1948-49 and 1953-54 and 1957-58, the secretary of the treasury says the recent inventory readjustment "has proceeded smoothly and, of primary importance, has been offset by strong final demand," and that, with this shift, the gross national product has risen in 1960.

THE SECRETARY might well have pointed out also that the total accumulation of inventories in December 1959 stood at $89.4 billion and that, even though inventory buying now has been suspended, it still shows up at $93.4 billion at the end of the second quarter of this year.

By stopping the expansion of inventories, the whole situation is readjusted in a healthy way, and inventory accumulation will naturally be resumed as the heavy demand for products tends to absorb what has been piled up through the abnormal operation that followed the ending of the steel strike.

"The inventory adjustment," concludes Secretary Anderson, "appears now to be nearing completion. Business spending for new plant and equipment, according to the latest government survey, continues at a high and sustained level.

"Governmental spending for goods and services, embracing state and local as well as federal outlays, continue to advance. Recent surveys indicate that consumer buying plans were well maintained during the summer and that consumers increasingly regard their financial positions as favorable.

"As already noted, personal income has continued to rise and, with inflation under control, rising personal income means rising purchasing power for the consumer."

MR. ANDERSON pointed to the wholesome effect which the easing of interest rates has had. He says:

"Credit to support residential and other construction is more readily available, at lower interest rates. This in turn has helped sustain the level of housing starts. Construction contract awards have also increased recently. Thus, the outlook for a rising volume of construction is favorable. . . .

"The adjustments that our economy has undergone this year provide the base for a long period of sustainable, non - inflationary growth."

But what of the future if the budget is unbalanced again and government spending rises to unprecented heights?

The secretary of the treasury is a non-political person and doesn't discuss campaign issues. But a footnote to his address might well be added that a change in fiscal policies can alter the outlook for business and for the consumer.

Mr. Anderson says that the "most important single fact leading to the decline in inflationary expectations was the realization, last January, that the $12.4 billion federal deficit of fiscal year 1959 would be replaced by a surplus in fiscal year 1960. This surplus actually totalled $1.1. billion."

Will the period of stability and repressed inflation continue? The November election will furnish the answer.

Letter To The Editor

The recent letter of Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Chan, Democrats, as I think I may safely assume, concludes with the statement, "We are not ignorant!" Be that as it may, certainly they may be thought of as just a little forgetful, more than a little unfair and extremely naive.

For those who have good memories, what in the performance of the last two Democratic presidents inspires such confidence in Democratic ability to deal effectively with Russian leaders? Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman were so inept in coping with Communism that they gave Russia everything movable and permitted China to become Red China, and in general laid the groundwork for most of our present difficulties with Russia and China.

Unemployment was a problem with Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman, too, until World War II and the Korean War provided a demand for goods and men. Many of us feel that this solution to the problem is infinitely worse than the problem itself.

How unfair it is to begrudge the President the relaxation of golf which helps relieve his tremendous burden! Were his critics equally concerned with the vacations of Mr. R. and Mr. T.? Is not a yacht slightly more expensive in time and money than a set of golf clubs?

Unfair also is it to blame the President for high taxes, labor troubles, racial strife, et cetera, et cetera ad infinatum. Congress still levies taxes and legislates in these other fields. I believe that I am betraying no confidence when I state that Congress has a substantial Democratic majority!

In Alice in Wonderland we read:

Alice laughed, "One can't believe impossible things!" "I dare say you haven't had much practice," said the White Queen kindly, "When I was your age, I always did it for a half an hour a day. Why, sometimes I've believed as many as six impossible things before breakfast!"

Have our Democratic friends been indulging in the White Queen's exercise of believing impossible things? Their letter would seem to indicate as much.

Is their naivity so great that they think labor leaders are spending millions of the workers' dues to further Mr. Kennedy's election without those union leaders receiving any concessions in return?

If they are smarting under high taxes now, as are all of us, do they honestly feel that Mr. Kennedy is going to apply a soothing lotion of lower taxes? It is plain that if he fulfills even a few of the astronomical promises of the Democratic platform, taxes will soar to the moon whether rockets reach it or not!

Can they actually swallow the Democratic party promises trying to emulate St. Paul and be "All things to all men."

If any can credit all this, then the poor old White Queen must make way for new champions in believing the impossible!

Tomorrow It May Be Squirt Guns

There's only one thing wrong with the idea that people like Stalin and Khrushchev, who say and do things that shock the West, are crude characters who never were housebroken.

They do nothing that is not deliberate.

They resist being housebroken for their own good reasons. They know better.

Their judgment has revealed to them and their advisers that what the Americans say is true: "Nice guys never win."

They are out to win, catch as catch can.

They are not trying to win a popularity contest. They are hopeful of winning a world.

Even if they could live a thousand years, there would not be time to install their brand of socialism with Fabian tactics, the way the British socialists tried to do it.

That isn't the Communist idea.

The Communist idea is to beat their ideology into its victims, then beat the work out of them. The Communist Conspiracy doesn't make converts. It captures converts.

EVERY TIME Nikita Khrushchev can think up a new way to needle the West, he gets more headlines and more TV camera time.

His latest stunt was to heckle the head lion of the British Empire during Prime Minister Macmillan's full-dress speech before the General Assembly of the United Nations Thursday.

This has been his most successful move to date, next to the worldwide attention he commanded by embracing and kissing Cuba's Fidel Castro, who either is singing "The Internationale" for his supper or for his life, depending on whether you think he is a revolutionist or a counter-revolutionist.

It was way out ahead of the desk-thumping act he and his companions put on when General Assemblymen were applauding President Eisenhower.

There was no comparison between it and the balcony scenes and quickie press and television conferences he has been putting on whenever he thought it was time to pull out the publicity stops and play another cadenza on the organ of publicity.

Certainly it beat the gold-plate bread-breaking with Cyrus Eaton and the businessmen—because that, in a way, was Eaton's way of stirring up the animals, not Khrushchev's.

BUT THIS SORT of thing always raises the question of an encore. Khrushchev has to top his own act.

So tomorrow it may be squirt guns smuggled into the General Assembly, pulled out of pockets and used to drench the other delegates with attar of borsch.

There still are people who think Khrushchev is hanging around New York until his spaceniks can shoot a man into orbit and bring him back alive. That would give him top-banana prestige for at least a fortnight. Meanwhile, he must keep from being inconspicuous.

It is like the show business adage that said, "I don't care what you say about me, but spell my name right." The name is Khrushchev — K-H-R-U-S-H-C-H-E-V.

The name of the fellow he interrupted was Macmillan. He is Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, but his speech will be overlooked in the hysteria over the way he was rudely interrupted by the Premier of the Soviet Union.

If Khrushchev ever gets thrown out of the Kremlin, he should come to New York and set up a public relations firm. For a modest retainer he'd get his client's name before the public once every 24 hours. The guy's unstoppable.

Figures In The Background

The death of Mrs. Eisenhower's 82-year-old mother in Denver on Thursday has turned many thoughts to the relationship between leading political personalities and the figures in the background.

Harry Truman's elderly mother and Mrs. Truman's women friends from Independence, Mo., were important, if only occasional, White House personalities. Franklin D. Roosevelt's mother was rarely seen and rarely quoted and never stayed in the White House, but no one doubted the impact of her personality on her son.

In President Eisenhower's own family, his brothers have been background figures, frequently present but rarely making their presence felt. But in Mrs. Eisenhower's family, Elivera Doud of Denver was to become in a modest way the most famous mother-in-law of her day.

The president was a frequent visitor in her home. She lived in the White House for a time and even rode the campaign train. Dwight Eisenhower was the kind of son-in-law who could call a mother-in-law by the nickname "Min" and make it seem natural.

And by all accounts "Min" was the kind of mother-in-law who would expect to be addressed that way because she shared with daughter Mamie the conviction that "Ike" was the best soldier-politician who ever peered down a rifle barrel or over the top of a pair of reading glasses.

It isn't the easiest thing in the world for the families behind politicians to be there without being so much there they become figures in the foreground, instead of in the background.

Mrs. Doud, the most famous mother-in-law of her day, was always there, though not one American in a million could have identified her by sight or quoted her on anything she ever said.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Setting, direction and mood projected by first TV Kennedy-Nixon debate was so lacking in warmth and expressiveness that millions of voters got the impression they were listening to debate between Nanook of North and Sgt. Preston of the Yukon. First debate was staged in a studio once used as ice-rink. (It is still an ice rink to the audience.)

Nobody would have been surprised if in a grand climax Sen. Kennedy skated off the stage, Dick Nixon bowed out on snowshoes and the assembled quizzers turned around to face audience disguised as late Admiral Peary and party.

Here were two candidates for the highest office in America nearing the peak of momentous campaign, supposedly debating in spirit of colorful Lincoln-Douglas series, yet Kennedy and Nixon looked grim, made cold figures on a bare stage and should sue CBS over the closeups. Nixon could collect heavy damages. Cameramen seemed to go all out to project him as understudy to Boris Karloff. (Could this be a Democratic plot?)

Question: What's attractive about quizzers' backs of heads? The interviewers were not hiding from the FBI. They hadn't "beat" their wives. They are not bad lookers. They sat, backs to audience, giving the impression questions were coming from a waxworks.

General atmosphere should have been credited to Baffins Bay Dramatic Association and Klondike Little Theater Group. Both candidates seemed trapped in a deep freeze unit and fearful the director (if any) would throw in a handful of artificial snow.

In such a desolate ex-ice rink, why couldn't some TV genius have had the imagination to put up a drop-curtain in warm colors with scenes recalling torchlight parades, Lincoln-Douglas debates, and perhaps a voting booth?

This looked like all-out effort by TV to kill any belief Dick and Jack were doing an air-wave revival of "The Happiness Boys."

TEAMSTERS UNION has followed up its investment in its own Florida vacation resort by buying Everglades Hotel in Miami. It has interest in other Miami Beach hotels. Theme song of all its hotel orchestras should be "Wagon Wheels."

If anybody at Cy Eaton's dinner for Khrushchev had said, "I'm so hungry I could eat a horse," Cleveland millionaire might have ordered waiter to serve one of the three presented him by Khrushchev last year. It would have busted up dinner if orchestra had played "I'm A Yankee Doodle Dandy" during Eaton's speech.

Khrushchev pounds on a table at the U.N. when angry. Probably wants U.N. location changed to POUND Ridge, Conn.

In our book, one of best speeches in U.N. was by John Diefenbaker, Canadian delegate. "Mr. Khrushchev says it will always be the Soviet position that countries should establish their own systems of own free will," he declared in one great paragraph. "What of Lithuania, Estonia, Latvia? What of freedom-loving Ukranians, and other Eastern Europe peoples?" (Why do U.S. speakers lack similar wallop?)

Emily Post, dead at 87, once defended doughnut dunking and elbows on table. Of dunking she wrote, "Any place having doughnuts would be like a picnic where, short of smearing wet ones from ear to ear, you could do pretty much as you pleased with one." Kerplunk, and thank you.

Nikita, here in the World Series season, may appear on a balcony in baseball uniform, pose as the friend of all nonparticipating baseball teams as underprivileged, denounce the Yanks as capitalistic exploiters and demand the removal of both leagues to Moscow, Geneva or Budapest in interest of fair play and world peace.

Following this up by proposing that the umpires be replaced by a 20-man committee with veto power. Kept on Manhattan with the series in the Bronx, he could also call upon all club owners to free hotdog and peanut vendors from control of concession operators.

We can hear him roaring, "Why call this a World Series when only the Yanks and Pittsburgh are mentioned? Where are Ghana, the Congo and Cuba?"

"The glorification of Casey Stengel is a plot to obscure Lumumba. All peace loving peoples are for the inclusion of underdeveloped baseball areas as represented by Kansas City and Philadelphia.

"I point to the desolate areas of Ebbets Field and the Polo Grounds as proof of what imperialistic powers have done."

Here Fidel Castro embraced him and cried "Yankees no; Pittsburgh yes." Mr. Khrushchev continued, "It is time to disarm the powerful Mickey Mantle and all hitters with an average above .300.

"The need for aid to Baltimore is apparent. There can be no peaceful solution as the World Series is presented today.

"The U.S.S.R. is for a series in which all baseball teams everywhere participate, regardless of their experience or the ratings of those sinister forces, the official scorers.

Asked if he wanted to go to series and throw out the first "brawl," he replied, "The series can do without me, but can I do without the series, in my pitch for complete front page publicity? There is an old Russian proverb, 'Where the cameras are thick as sturgeon eggs a showman who stays away gathers no moss.'"

Temporarily Benched

Workers' Rights Reviewed For Mr. K

By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK

Among the private conversations of N. S. Khrushchev which have escaped the public prints, there is one talk which should be put on record now that he has slapped around this creaky old capitalism of ours.

Victor Riesel

On the afternoon to which I refer here, the chairman spoke as the world's biggest employer of labor—and his attitude on unions will fascinate the National Assn. of Manufacturers.

At about 4 a.m. on July 13 in his Kremlin office, Khrushchev was asked by some visiting U.S. labor leaders:

"What is the role of trade unions in top planning and policy-making bodies of the Soviet government?"

In reporting the Soviet leader's reply, the head of the visiting delegation, Joe Curran of the National Maritime Union, said:

"On the question of how trade unions participate in policy-making matters and what they can do in case of disputes, Khrushchev spoke at length on the powers which unions enjoy" in the Socialist fatherland.

The Soviet leader disclosed that the economic program first is drawn up by a planning commission. It is dispatched to the unions.

THEN MR. K revealed what it means to bargain with the top man in the U.S.S.R.

"Sometimes they disagree," said the leader. "They come to the government and say this was done wrongly. We appoint a commission which studies it. Either we agree and accept, which happens most often (sic).

"But you know how unions are. They want always (sic) higher wages and conditions. So we show them our pockets."

At this point Curran reports that Mr. K laughed.

"We show them what we can do and then we make a proposition. Maybe take this this year and maybe some more next year. The unions have great rights on firings and on (production) quotas. I was a worker and I know."

Khrushchev revealed that he had proposed giving the unions authority over all welfare services, instead, I suppose, of burdening the state business trusts with the headaches.

CURRAN'S MEMORANDUM records this gay bit of employer-worker-union relations:

"I said," said Khrushchev smilingly, "why should I take all this complaint. The hell with it! Let the unions take care of it all themselves. From the cradle to the grave — housing, orphan homes, holidays, pensions, sanitoria."

When it comes to the Russian unions' right to strike, Khrushchev said, "People say our unions don't strike. They have the right. Our constitution provides for that. But what is a strike?

"We have no Rockefellers here. We have no private property. All property belongs to society. I am a member of a union. If it was up to me, I could say 'work four hours a day.' But it would be foolish. We must expand our productive forces first.

"How would it be to work four hours a day and have nothing to eat? We have unity of interests between state and unions . . . Where there is a conflict between director and union, then it goes to a higher standing body. Then the (Communist) party comes into the picture."

THE RECORDS I've seen disclose that the party has constantly ruled against the Russian unions.

Where there have been recent strikes in uranium pits and new steel works, the militia crushed the walkouts.

Now if N.S.K. wants some capitalist statistics about rights of the working people in the U.S. he has been flailing so much, here they are:

There were hundreds of strikes even during the second World War. Between the end of that conflict and this September, labor struck for a total of 577,000,000 man-days.

These walkouts affected vast railroads, giant corporations, probings of outer space and many a defense project.

The chairman of the board of the Soviet trust talks with ill grace about working people and their rights.

Dear Nephew: Your aunt and I assure you that you're on the right track and should keep chugging in the direction you indicated in your letter.

There are things in this world no one can change. Then there are other things that no individual can change. It is useless to stew and fret about such things.

But other things can be changed and should be changed. They need the benefit of someone's interest. The important thing is to know the difference between what can be and can't be changed and to learn to live with the one and get rid of the other.

This is the prayer of Alcoholics Anonymous. But the silly thing is to think it has some special application to people who can't stop drinking once they start.

Their problems are not essentially different from the problems of people who work themselves into hypertension and nervous breakdowns by trying to do the impossible. It's just the alcoholics' bad luck to turn to drink whereas other people stay cold sober while stewing about their frustrations.

Your aunt and I have survived so far without ending up in the booby hatch or the emergency room. We feel that part of our success has been due to the list we keep of things that can't be changed and therefore are not worth fretting about.

Political campaigns don't bug us, for example, because we know we can't change the practice among politicians of jabbing darts into each other to draw blood. We refuse to worry because they do it. Nothing ever will change it. And we also refuse to pay attention to the darts, which is one of the reasons for voter apathy in this country. People are boycotting the politicians.

We cannot change the Castros and Khrushchevs, nor the Nassers, the Nehrus and the Gomulkas. These are standard types in the human race. Their names change as history turns the pages, but they are as easily to classify as Caucasians, Negroes, and Aryans.

We grin and bear 'em like gossips, spendthrifts, ne'er-do-wells, club women, back-slappers and 150 per cent patriots. There's nothing we can do about any of these.

Another thing we are smart enough to let alone is human failure. It comes in all shapes and sizes—people who don't have all their buttons on, people who come apart at the seams before their time, people who took too many blows and went punchy and people like us who weren't any too smart in the first place and haven't improved with age.

We take them in our stride. We don't aim to make silk purses out of sow's ears. And we don't berate ourselves for their hard luck—or for our own. We all have the best we could, and no one can do any more than that.

So you make your list. Write down all the things you don't intend to try to change. In your case, I'd suggest that you start with the weather. Quit grousing about it so much.

Quit complaining because people don't measure up to your specifications. You goofed on the specifications, that's all. You made a blueprint of the impossible.

When you were little, we used to find you in front of the mirror trying to change your face, which was almost as ugly then as it is now. We told you it was no use; that it was the face you were born with and it couldn't be helped. We were wrong about that. But how could we be expected to know then about plastic surgery. Or orthodontia? So, your list must be kept up to date. Right now we're trying to decide whether atomic fallout should be moved from the list of things we can't do anything about.

Don't forget. Make a list. You'll be surprised at the result. Regards to the family. They made their list of things they couldn't change years ago, and weren't you you the lucky one? They decided to take you as you are. Nobody ever tried to improve you. It would have been hopeless.

Rolling Readjustment

By David Lawrence

Economy Seen Meeting Effect Of Steel Strike

"Rolling readjustment" is the phrase that describes the business situation today. It means that the national economy is adjusting itself to a strain imposed upon it by the steel strike last year, and that a period of stability is ahead.

David Lawrence

Secretary of the treasury, Robert B. Anderson, in a speech just delivered before a meeting of the governing boards of three financial institutions of worldwide scope gives a very significant explanation of what is going on in America today.

Though his address is couched in technical phrases, Mr. Anderson makes the point that, when the steel strike came, various businesses began to live off their stockpiles — more often called inventories.

When the strike was over in January of this year, they replenished their stocks not only of steel but of the by-products of steel.

This process of building up inventories is a form of expansion that temporarily stimulates the economy but, when the motivating influence or need is no longer present, the momentum stops.

That's what has happened to the American economy.

SECRETARY ANDERSON describes it this way:

"In the first quarter of 1960, businesses were accumulating inventories at the near-record annual rate of $11.4 billion.

"This rapid rate of accumulation was partly the result of resumption of steel output after a long strike, and partly the result of expectations of limited supply, rising prices and vigorous demand in 1960.

"But, as it became clear in ensuing months that most industrial goods and materials would continue to be readily available at reasonably stable prices, the rate of accumulation began to decrease.

"The available evidence now indicates that inventories are no longer rising but are perhaps declining slightly. Over-all, therefore, the annual rate of inventory spending has fallen by $11 to $12 billion.

"This sharp decline in inventory spending is the key fact in our domestic business picture and accounts for the relative stability of industrial production in 1960, despite a substantial expansion in final demand."

Mr. Anderson points out that the drop in inventory spending is larger than it was in 1957-58 and that it is apparent "that, in the past eight months, we have experienced another major postwar shift in inventory spending."

In contrast with what happened in the recessions of 1948-49 and 1953-54 and 1957-58, the secretary of the treasury says the recent inventory readjustment "has proceeded smoothly and, of primary importance, has been offset by strong final demand," and that, with this shift, the gross national product has risen in 1960.

THE SECRETARY might well have pointed out also that the total accumulation of inventories in December 1959 stood at $89.4 billion and that, even though inventory buying now has been suspended, it still shows up at $93.4 billion at the end of the second quarter of this year.

By stopping the expansion of inventories, the whole situation is readjusted in a healthy way, and inventory accumulation will naturally be resumed as the heavy demand for products tends to absorb what has been piled up through the abnormal operation that followed the ending of the steel strike.

"The inventory adjustment," concludes Secretary Anderson, "appears now to be nearing completion. Business spending for new plant and equipment, according to the latest government survey, continues at a high and sustained level.

"Governmental spending for goods and services, embracing state and local as well as federal outlays, continue to advance. Recent surveys indicate that consumer buying plans were well maintained during the summer and that consumers increasingly regard their financial positions as favorable.

"As already noted, personal income has continued to rise and, with inflation under control, rising personal income means rising purchasing power for the consumer."

MR. ANDERSON pointed to the wholesome effect which the easing of interest rates has had. He says:

"Credit to support residential and other construction is more readily available, at lower interest rates. This in turn has helped sustain the level of housing starts. Construction contract awards have also increased recently. Thus, the outlook for a rising volume of construction is favorable. . . .

"The adjustments that our economy has undergone this year provide the base for a long period of sustainable, non-inflationary growth."

But what of the future if the budget is unbalanced again and government spending rises to unprecented heights?

The secretary of the treasury is a non-political person and doesn't discuss campaign issues. But a footnote to his address might well be added that a change in fiscal policies can alter the outlook for business and for the consumer.

Mr. Anderson says that the "most important single fact leading to the decline in inflationary expectations was the realization, last January, that the $12.4 billion federal deficit of fiscal year 1959 would be replaced by a surplus in fiscal year 1960. This surplus actually totalled $1.1 billion."

Will the period of stability and repressed inflation continue? The November election will furnish the answer.

Jury Convicts Watts; Mercy Is Requested

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP)—Kenneth Watts, 21, of Rittman, was convicted of first-degree murder by a Wayne County Common Pleas Court jury Thursday night.

A recommendation of mercy from the jury of eight women and four men saved Watts from the electric chair, making a life imprisonment sentence mandatory.

Watts, a former West Virginia millworker, was tried for the shooting of Mr. and Mrs. William Fender at their farm home near Doylestown April 16. He pleaded innocent by reason of insantiy.

Authorities claimed Watts killed the elderly couple to obtain their automobile.

The defendant was pale but calm when the verdict was read, but later sobbed on the shoulder of his father, Shiloh Watts. He briefly resisted an attempt by sheriff's deputies to put handcuffs on him and on leaving the court room he gave the swinging door a kick.

Defense lawyers said it was not decided whether the verdict would be appealed. Judge Wayne W. Badger of Holmes County, seated in the case by assignment, deferred sentencing until next Thursday.

Mrs. Marilyn Wagner of Rittman, where Watts worked in a boxboard factory, was the state's chief witness. The mother of three children testified Watts shot her April 15 and fled with her automobile following an argument in which he tried to force her to run away with him.

Technical experts testified for the state that a bullet taken from Mrs. Wagner and one removed from the head of Mrs. Fender were fired from the same gun.

Watts was accompanied by his father when he surrendered April 20 to the Ohio Highway Patrol at a service station near an Ohio River bridge to Kentucky. He told police he "blacked out" and didn't recall any of the shootings. The defendant did not take the stand during the trial, which lasted nine days.

Lisbon Driver Hurt In Crash

A Lisbon area man was injured when his car crashed into trees on Grant St. Ext. at Lisbon early today while a Youngstown woman suffered a minor injury in a mishap north of Wellsville yesterday, the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Dwaine Morris, 33, of Lisbon R. D. 1, headed south, lost control on a curve at 1:05 a. m., and his 1951 sedan struck the trees, causing heavy damage.

He was taken to Salem City Hospital with lacerations and bruises of the head.

Margaret Dirdo, 25, of Youngstown suffered a back sprain when her car struck a utility pole on Route 45 about a mile and a half north of Wellsville at 11:05 p. m.

She was headed south when she lost control of her 1954 sedan on a curve. It was demolished, according to officers, who charged her with reckless operation.

Intruders Hit 2 Rail Offices

Burglars apparently left empty-handed Thursday night or early today after ransacking the ticket office of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. and the Railway Express Co. office, both located in the same building at 324 E. 2nd St., police reported.

Officers said apparently nothing was taken from the ticket office on the main floor of the building or from the express agency's office and receiving and shipping room, which are located both in the basement and the ground floor. Discovered this morning by a Railway Express employe, the entry apparently occurred between 5:45 p. m. Thursday and 8 a. m. today, police said.

The intruder apparently gained entrance by throwing a brick through a 10-x-16-inch pane of glass in a basement window on the east side, then reaching through the opening to turn the latch, police said. Then he went to the Railway Express office upstairs, searching the drawers and cabinets.

Then the intruder went into an adjoining hall and made an unsuccessful attempt to force a door into the ticket office, using a hatchet which usually hangs in the basement. The intruder then broke a 2-x-4-foot pane of glass at the ticket window and pulled off 7 bars, officers said. Entering the office via the window, the ransacked it thoroughly, but apparently took nothing. Opening the office door from inside, he then left the building by the front door, officers said.

Motorist Gets 3 Months For Fourth Arrest

An East End man was given a 90-day jail term and fined $200 and costs today in Municipal Court on a drunken driving charge, by his own admission his 4th arrest in 6 years involving alcohol and autos.

Orlando L. Bennett, 42, of 815 Price St. also drew a 10-day concurrent jail term on a charge of driving without a license after Judge Samuel M. Chertoff confiscated the West Virginia permit he was carrying, declaring it apparently had been obtained through fraudulently claiming a Chester address.

Bennett was jailed after his 1954 sedan rammed into a utility pole at 12:27 this morning at Elizabeth St. and Pennsylvania Ave. He told police he did not know how the accident occurred and said he must have fallen asleep at the wheel.

Bennett was questioned by the judge after he pleaded guilty to both charges this morning. He was carrying a valid West Virginia license issued in the name of Lan Bennett, Box 111, Chester. Court records show a Lan Bennett with a W. 2nd St. address was fined $150 and costs Dec. 21, 1955, on a charge of being in physical control of an auto while intoxicated. Bennett admitted to the judge he was the defendant in the 1955 case.

Bennett also told the judge, in response to questions, that he was in court on two subsequent occasions on charges of driving while intoxicated. In the most recent case about a year ago, he was fined $300 and costs and served 3 days in jail, although his license was not suspended, he added.

The license which the judge confiscated was timed to expire in 1963. Bennett told the court he has been residing in East End two years. He said he never has had an Ohio permit. He said he obtained his first West Virginia license in 1952 while residing in Parkersburg.

Bennett told the court he applied for his present West Virginia permit last spring in a Chester squire's office.

"In my opinion, you obtained this license by fraud by stating you resided in Chester," the judge told the defendant. Bennett told the court he has been jobless since April 1.

CLEAN GAS COOKING
"Gee Mom, we never had it so good"
"I'll say we've never had it so good. Those are mashed potatoes that I had ready a half hour ago when daddy called to say he'd be late. But they'll still be light and fluffy and hot when we sit down to eat. The Burner-with-a-Brain* will see to that. It raises the flame automatically—keeps foods steaming hot without drying out. No more burned, overcooked food at our house—now that I have my new Gold Star Award Gas Range!" *A.G.A. design

Furnace Work Set By Weirton Steel

WEIRTON — After setting a new steel industry record for continuous production,, the No. 4 blast furnace at the Weirton Steel Co. was blown out Thursday in preparation for relining.

The furnace was placed in operation on Sept. 24, 1952, and amassed a total production of 4,300,000 tons of pig iron in a period of continuous operation covering 8 years and 4 days in which no repair work was done.

The relining project will require approximately 80 working days or a total of 120 days, with the work being done by the A. E. Anderson Construction Co. of Buffalo, under supervision of the Weirton Steel engineering department.

Gen. Twining Retires Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Nathan Farragut Twining, the nation's top military man for the past three years, retires today after a career he began 44 years ago as an infantry recruit.

The retiring chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff has been one of the last great American generals of World War II still in active service.

Ceremonial units from each of the services were scheduled to pass in review before him late today at nearby Bolling Air Force Base.

Twining, who will be 63 Oct. 11, had requested retirement for health reasons before completing his second two-year term in the Pentagon's No. 1 military post. President Eisenhower on Aug. 15 named Army Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer to succeed him.

In World War II Twining commanded more different air forces than any other general. He commanded the 13th Air Force in the South Pacific before being given the Solomon Islands aircraft command in 1943. This was one of the first joint air commands in U.S. history. He was in tactical control of all Army, Navy, Marine and Allied air forces in the South Pacific.

Twining later commanded the 15th Air Force in Italy and the Mediterranean Allied Strategic Air Forces.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What can I do about bluing spots on white materials?

A. Bluings differ chemically and spots due to them require different treatment. Cold water is a general method. Dampening the spot with alcohol before laundering will usually remove the stain. If the stain is persistent, oxalic acid may be used.

Q. Is there any possible way I can remedy some worn spots on an otherwise good rug?

A. Try buying a package of dye color of the background on your rug, mixing this with enough very hot water to form a thin paste, and applying to the worn spots with a small brush. This should help lots.

Q. Do you have any suggestions for "something different" in the way of breakfast muffins?

A. Here's a good one. Try adding one - third cup of coarsely-chopped crisp bacon to your plain muffin batter. Mix with the dry ingredients, then add the liquid.

Township Hits New Reports Of Litterbugs

St. Clair Township officials have started a crackdown to curb the worst outbreak of trash dumping in many years and the maximum penalty of $50 for a first offense will be sought for all violators taken into court, Constable John Jackson warned today.

The constable said there has been a noticeable increase in trash dumping along all the township roads, but it is particularly severe on the old section of the Calcutta-Smiths Ferry Rd., the Bell School Rd., the Grimms Bridge Rd. and the Sprucevale Rd.

Jackson said he already has cited the first three violators, but they are not scheduled for hearings until next Wednesday night. They will appear before County Judge Earl Spalding at East Palestine. Jackson declined to reveal the names of the defendants pending the hearings.

The three were picked up because the refuse contained papers showing their names and addresses, Jackson said. He said that ironically most of the trash dumped along the St. Clair roads seems to come from households in East Liverpool, where refuse collections are prepaid by a tax levy.

In instances where trash is cleaned up by townshp crews, officials expect to charge the labor and other expenses to convicted refuse dumpers, Jackson said. The township has been troubled for years with trash dumping, but the recent outbreak is one of the most severe in memory, the constable said.

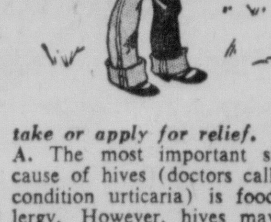
WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

Better Health Through Knowledge

Tomboys, Tears and Trousseaus

- Ankle Swelling
- Hives



Q. My 9-year-old daughter like to dress in boys' clothes and tries to act like a boy. Will this wear off? I certainly hope so because it drives me to tears.—A worried mother.

A. Most little grils who like to dress in boys' clothes grow up to be quite womanly. However, it would seem wise not to just sit back and let nature take its course. Encourage girlish behavior but avoid browbeating, teasing, and shaming. Such measures may do more harm than good.

Q. During the recent warm weather I noticed that my ankles became swollen. Should I consult a doctor?

A. It might be desirable to have a checkup, although hot weather swelling of the ankles is not uncommon in healthy persons. Simple swelling of this sort seems to go away, even if the weather continues to be warm. Persistent ankle swelling would, of course, call for medical consultation.

Q. What causes hives? Surely there must be something to take or apply for relief.

A. The most important single cause of hives (doctors call the condition urticaria) is food allergy. However, hives may be caused by any substance to which a person is sensitive and is often associated with extreme nervousness. Sudden attacks of hives are usually caused by such seasonal foods as strawberries, tomatoes, etc. Shellfish are responsible for many cases of hives. Although hives usually disappear at the end of a week or so, cases have been known to continue for several months or longer. Treatment consists of finding and avoiding the particular substance or condition responsible for hives.

Nixon, Kennedy Debate On Oct. 7 Moved To Capital

CLEVELAND — The Oct. 7 debates between the two presidential candidates will be moved to Washington, an official of KYW-TV said Thursday. Space limitations were blamed for the shift.

The second meeting of Sen. John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon originally was set for New York. It was planned to transfer it here for the convenience of the candidates, who will be in Ohio on Oct. 6.

The first debate was in Chicago Monday night, with the arrangements in the hands of the Columbia Broadcasting System. The second is being arranged by the National Broadcasting Co., whose outlet here is KYW-TV.

Franklin A. Tooke, area vice president of Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. said KYW-TV has been advised that the site of the Oct. 7 event would be Washington.

Tooke said NBC officials found the Cleveland station's technical facilities completely suitable. But the problem was to find space for "the inordinate number of newsmen — over 300 — with phone and writing facilities in the same building at the time of the telecast," he said.

40 Attend Try-Outs Of Area Theater Group

Forty persons turned out at the Strand Theater in Sebring Thursday night to try out for roles in the Tri-County Players Group's first production, "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Final casting will be conducted next Tuesday at 7:30 at the theater.

The longest speech on record in the U. S. Senate was that of Sen. J. Strom Thurmond of North Carolina, who on Aug. 28-29, 1957, talked for 24 hours and 18 minutes. This eclipsed the former record set by Sen. Wayne Morris of Oregon, who in 1953 spoke for 22 hours and 26 minutes.

Nixon, Kennedy Debate On Oct. 7 Moved To Capital

CLEVELAND — The Oct. 7 debates between the two presidential candidates will be moved to Washington, an official of KYW-TV said Thursday. Space limitations were blamed for the shift.

The second meeting of Sen. John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon originally was set for New York. It was planned to transfer it here for the convenience of the candidates, who will be in Ohio on Oct. 6.

The first debate was in Chicago Monday night, with the arrangements in the hands of the Columbia Broadcasting System. The second is being arranged by the National Broadcasting Co., whose outlet here is KYW-TV.

Franklin A. Tooke, area vice president of Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. said KYW-TV has been advised that the site of the Oct. 7 event would be Washington.

Tooke said NBC officials found the Cleveland station's technical facilities completely suitable. But the problem was to find space for "the inordinate number of newsmen — over 300 — with phone and writing facilities in the same building at the time of the telecast," he said.

40 Attend Try-Outs Of Area Theater Group

Forty persons turned out at the Strand Theater in Sebring Thursday night to try out for roles in the Tri-County Players Group's first production, "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Although there was a sufficient number of persons present to complete the casting, it was noted that more are needed, not only for acting roles but for production crews.

Final casting will be conducted next Tuesday at 7:30 at the theater.

The longest speech on record in the U. S. Senate was that of Sen. J. Strom Thurmond of North Carolina, who on Aug. 28-29, 1957, talked for 24 hours and 18 minutes. This eclipsed the former record set by Sen. Wayne Morris of Oregon, who in 1953 spoke for 22 hours and 26 minutes.

For Kennedy-Johnson Ticket

Ohio's Democrats Talking Of 'Landslide' On Nov. 8

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A week of successful campaigning in Ohio has started Democrats talking cockily of a landslide victory for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket Nov. 8.

Texas Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, the party's vice presidential nominee, was talking that way in two campaign speeches Thursday in Columbus and Chillicothe. Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle had started the talk the day before that the election is "all over."

They both appeared to be basing their confidence on the enthusiastic reception received by Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy earlier this week in normally Democratic Northeastern Ohio.

Johnson, as he stumped Central Ohio, did nothing to quiet the political issue of religion which, he said, is threatening to divide the nation in a time of crisis. The tall Texan himself raised the issue on several occasions.

And, his show of confidence to the contrary notwithstanding, Johnson took the trouble at every opportunity to lambaste Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon. He even chided Nixon for a recent accident to his knee which hospitalized him for two weeks with the remark:

"This is no time for a weak-kneed president."

Johnson was full of wisecracks as he sailed through a tough day of campaigning and took off for Memphis for more of the same. It was only when the U.S. Senate majority leader touched on the issue of religion that he even raised a sweat during the unseasonably warm day.

"I want to say right now," Johnson asserted from the steps of the Ohio Statehouse, "that the Communists have a much deeper understanding of the so-called religious issue than those who seek to inject it into this campaign.

"The Communists are well aware that the real issue of our times lies between those who believe in God and those who do not. . . .

"Isn't it about time, don't you think, that we wake up to the fact that those who seek to divide us are doing Nikita Khrushchev's work for him, whether wittingly or unwittingly?"

Johnson's appearances drew about 5,000 persons in each of the cities he visited. The Chillicothe crowd was swelled by hundreds of school pupils. Many of them seized the opportunity to whoop it up for Nixon and President Eisenhower.

Johnson pointed out that the Midwest was the cradle of the Republican Party, but, he asserted, the GOP has deserted the Midwest.

This year, the Democratic nominee added, "the Republican Party hasn't even granted a courtesy nod to any part of the vast territory that stretches between the eastern and western seaboards."

Speaking from the rear of a flatbed truck which formed an improvided stage at the Ross County Courthouse, Johnson predicted the next president will be faced with a monumental job of strengthening national preparedness, Western Hemisphere solidarity, western alliance leadership and help to the uncommitted nations.

Johnson asserted this nation cannot have that kind of leadership "unless we wipe the slate clean of our prejudices, our hatreds and our fears."

Outing Slated By Cub Scouts

Plans for a wiener roast Oct. 15 at the Beaver Creek Presbyterian Camp were announced at a meeting of Cub Scout Pack 12 of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church Tuesday evening.

James Lowe, scoutmaster, said a forest ranger will give a talk in conjunction with "Forest Fire Prevention Week."

A mock election was held and the cubs elected Vice President Richard Nixon over Sen. John Kennedy, 14-7. A movie on Cub Scouting was screened by Tom Snow.

Awards were presented Steve Conkle, wolf pin and patch; James Conkle, lion patch; James Lowe, wolf pin and patch and bear book; John Crabtree, gold arrow, and Billy May, gold and silver arrows and bear book.

Mark Emmerling and Douglass Millward, new Bob Cats, were accepted. Receiving jubilee patches were Ricky Thornton, Jimmy Johnston, John Crabtree and Kenny Locke. A Cub Scout toothbrush was awarded Jimmy Johnston for the best handmade flag.

Den 2, with Mrs. Lora Crabtree in charge, led the opening with the "Pledge of Allegiance." Den 4, under Mrs. Irma Locke, presented a skit based on the 12 points of Cub Scouting.

Den 5, led by Mrs. Doris Locke and Mrs. Virgniia Conkle, gave the "Cub Scout Cheer." The attendance banner was won by Den 3 with 100 per cent. There were games.

Closing was under the direction of Den 4, and Den 5 served lunch.

Reward System Spurs Diet Program

A young mother, who has lost 10 pounds but still has 40 more to go to reach her best weight, writes: "The reducing road seems to stretch out so far ahead. . .I sometimes wonder if I can possibly hold out. Can you offer any tips to make the going seem easier?"

By Ida Jean Kain

The Reward System appears to be working wonderfully for another homemaker. She reports: "I found that by allowing myself a treat after each 10-pound loss, and something new in wearing apparel with each 15 to 18 pounds, when I can get into a smaller size, makes diet easier and more interesting.

"When I married I had a beautiful 115-pound figure. Three children and 16 years later, I found I had exactly doubled my weight. . . and weighed 230 pounds! I could barely squeeze all my bulk into a size 24½ dress.

THREATENED WITH having to wear a still larger size, I made up my mind to take action.

"I went to the doctor and was advised that I had nothing physically wrong with me. . .that is nothing except the excess poundage. The doctor told me to cut down on the groceries and stay on a balanced, protective diet.

"I put myself on a high protein diet of 1,200 calories to start, then gradually reduced my calories to 1,000 a day. To date, a little over four months, I have lost 70 pounds. According to the doctor's chart I still have 30 pounds more to go. I will no doubt lose more slowly from now on, but I know I can reach my right weight."

Cheers for this spirited dieter! Friends, rewarding yourself at definite intervals can be surpsingly helpful. It gives you a near goal at which to aim. With this plan you cut your reducing task down to life-size, so to speak. . . and the road ahead does not seem so endless.

Another dieter hit upon a plan that dealt directly with her most insidious habit. . .that of constant tasting while she prepared dinner. Before starting to get the dinner, she enjoyed a late-afternoon energy pick-up—varied each day.

She would eat a hard-cooked egg, deviled slimming-style with mustard and chopped celery; or drink a cup of hot cocoa made using skim milk and non-nutritive sweetener; or enjoy a cup of fragrant hot tea with a slice of high-protein bread, lightly-buttered. This quelled those hunger pangs.

NOW THE TRICK: While cooking the meal, she chewed gum. The plan worked like a charm and she lost the excess fat.

Dieters, if you have devised some means of foiling your most fattening folly, won't you share it with us?

Ex-Ohioan Cited On Narcotics In Cuba Disappears

HAVANA (AP)—Harold Fieldman, former Girard, Ohio, auto dealer accused by the Cuban government of trafficking in narcotics, has dropped out of sight.

Both his lawyer, Rafael Garcia, and the U.S. embassy said they have no information on his whereabouts.

Fieldman and Frank Cammaratta, of Youngstown, Ohio, were arrested with three Cubans in late July and police said they found $14,000 worth of drugs in their possession. Cammaratta, an Italian national with a prison record for armed robbery in Michigan, was accused by police of being an associate of Lucky Luciano, former New York underworld figure who was deported to Italy.

Fieldman was released Aug. 16 on $5,000 bail and arrested four days later by military agents who said he had befriended a former policeman in the regime of dictator Fulgencio Batista.

Fieldman was released from military custody on Sept. 2 without any further charges being brought against him. The embassy said it had not heard from him since.

Attorney Garcia said Cammaratta is still in prison, unable to raise the $20,000 bond set for him. The attorney said there was no indication when the narcotics case would be brought to trial.

what's new at Olsen's

It's a great time to be beautiful

"Ollie Olsen"

For a feminine, more glamorous you, the fashion world has created a wonderful, frankly flattering look. You'll see it and love it in Olsens wonderful collection of coats, suits, and dresses.

Everyone is talking about the spotted look. From raincoats to dresses—the excitement of the "Look of Leopard" is mounting. In some fashions it is only a trim touch . . . in others it is a complete costume. We just received a two way suit in Olsens Suit department that is really terrific. It looks more like leopard than the real thing. It is a reversible two piece demi - fitted jacket of gleaming black flannel, on the reverse side it is orlon pile leopard . . . with it is a straight slim skirt of black flannel. Truly a two in one fashion. Just "switch in a jiffy" for a completely new look. Yes, it looks like the year of the "Cat" is here.

New dresses reflect the mood of fall. New styles, new fabrics, and new colors in our fashion fresh collection. Matte jersey, wool jerseys, knits, and wool flannels. Olsens have them all in their dress department. One of our favorites is a slim sheath of printed matte jersey. The colors are so exciting, stained glass colors of green and brown. Slightly blouson top with a clever stand away collar A dress that's a honey to wear right now—looks like wool—but is not. Perfect for the woman who can not stand wool next to her body. This is only one of these wonderful wearable matte jersies . . . Olsens have them in all sizes including half sizes. And they are priced from only $13.79 up. So you had better stop in and make your selection early.

Olsens Sportswear Department has just come up with another new coordinate group. Fashioned of cotton knit with a micro-set finish. The finish that holds the shape of cotton knits against stretching or sagging. There's four pieces to choose. Mix and match them the way you prefer. Horizontal stripe cardigan, plain skirt that go hand in hand. Then there's a matching pullover and slim tapered pants. So pretty and pleasing for fall . . . the colors are in grey or green. Combinations are priced to fit your budget, too. From 3.88 to 5.79 in sizes 10 to 18.

Olsens did not forget the small fry this season, either. They just received a new shipment of car coats in the little girl's department. Car coats of every description — quilt lined orlon pile lined . . . some with hoods, others with large orlon pile collars. All fashioned in the new "leather look". Vinyl fabric that is so high in style yet low in price. Looks like big sisters real leather jacket. So soft and supple. Particularly designed for cold weather comfort and enjoyment. Best of all, they are so easy to take care of. No worry about those smudgy finger marks. Just whisk them away in a jiffy with a damp cloth. Beautiful colors that the little girls love in sizes 7 to 14. And they're priced from 5.79 up. So don't wait — hurry right down before cold weather is here and while the stock is at its peak.

Don't forget Olsens are open every night until nine. So bring the kiddies in and let them select their very own jacket.

Thats all today . . . see you next Friday.

Substation Switch Blamed For Wide Failure Of Power

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A switch at an Ohio Edison Co. substation near Port Clinton was blamed for a widespread power failure Thursday in the 2,500-square-mile area of Northwestern Ohio served by Toledo Edison.

A Toledo spokesman said that when the switch failed it knocked out a big Toledo generator that was supplying power to the 138,000-volt Port Clinton line.

Downtown Toledo was without electrical power for about 20 minutes. The Toledo Blade building was blacked out as were three radio and television stations — WTOL, WSPD and WOHO. Radio station WTOD was not affected.

Some sections were blacked out for 45 minutes.

Toledo Edison said some residential areas and some heavy industry in the city were not affected by the power failure.

The area served by the company runs north to the Michigan state line, west to the Indiana state line, east to Fremont and south to the Bowling Green-Defiance area.

A picture hanging project will be discussed when the new Fairfield Home Demonstration Group meets Wednesday at 1 p.m. with Mrs. Joan Williams of Route 517—quarter of a mile west of East Fairfield. Mrs. Ruth Hawkins and Mrs. Lois Coontes are the leaders, according to Miss Julia Shank, county extension agent in home economics.

what's new at Olsen's

It's a great time to be beautiful

"Ollie Olsen"

For a feminine, more glamorous you, the fashion world has created a wonderful, frankly flattering look. You'll see it and love it in Olsens wonderful collection of coats, suits, and dresses.

Everyone is talking about the spotted look. From raincoats to dresses—the excitement of the "Look of Leopard" is mounting. In some fashions it is only a trim touch . . . in others it is a complete costume. We just received a two way suit in Olsens Suit department that is really terrific. It looks more like leopard than the real thing. It is a reversible two piece semi - fitted jacket of gleaming black flannel, on the reverse side it is orlon pile leopard . . . with it is a straight slim skirt of black flannel. Truly a two in one fashion. Just "switch in a jiffy" for a completely new look. Yes, it looks like the year of the "Cat" is here.

New dresses reflect the mood of fall. New styles, new fabrics, and new colors in our fashion fresh collection. Matte jersey, wool jerseys, knits, and wool flannels. Olsens have them all in their dress department. One of our favorites is a slim sheath of printed matte jersey. The colors are so exciting, stained glass colors of green and brown. Slightly blouson top with a clever stand away collar. A dress that's a honey to wear right now—looks like wool—but is not. Perfect for the woman who can not stand wool next to her body. This is only one of these wonderful wearable matte jersies . . . Olsens have them in all sizes including half sizes. And they are priced from only $13.79 up. So you had better stop in and make your selection early.

Olsens Sportswear Department has just come up with another new coordinate group. Fashioned of cotton knit with a micro-set finish. The finish that holds the shape of cotton knits against stretching or sagging. There's four pieces to choose. Mix and match them the way you prefer. Horizontal stripe cardigan, plain skirt that go hand in hand. Then there's a matching pullover and slim tapered pants. So pretty and pleasing for fall . . . the colors are in grey or green. Combinations are priced to fit your budget, too. From 3.88 to 5.79 in sizes 10 to 18.

Olsens did not forget the small fry this season, either. They just received a new shipment of car coats in the little girl's department. Car coats of every description — quilt lined orlon pile lined . . . some with hoods, others with large orlon pile collars. All fashioned in the new "leather look". Vinyl fabric that is so high in style yet low in price. Looks like big sisters real leather jacket. So soft and supple. Particularly designed for cold weather comfort and enjoyment. Best of all, they are so easy to take care of. No worry about those smudgy finger marks. Just whisk them away in a jiffy with a damp cloth. Beautiful colors that the little girls love in sizes 7 to 14. And they're priced from 5.79 up. So don't wait — hurry right down before cold weather is here and while the stock is at its peak.

Don't forget Olsens are open every night until nine. So bring the kiddies in and let them select their very own jacket.

Thats all today . . . see you next Friday.

Ollie Olsen

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My name is Wesley. I am 10 years of age and in the fifth grade. I heard my mother tell a neighbor that she wrote to you and got good advice. Maybe you can give me some good advice, too.

My problem isn't about love or anything but it does worry me just the same. I can't figure it out.

It is when I can't find something and have to go look for it, it is always in the very last place I look? Does this happen to you?—WESLEY R.

-:-

Dear Wesley: Yes. This happens to everybody. The reason is easy to figure out. When you find what you are looking for you quit looking. So—the place you found it was the last place you looked.

Lessons Overdue

Dear Ann Landers: I've been married for 11 years. I knew when we were married that my husband could not read or write English but I didn't think it would make any difference.

He does manual labor and earns a good living but I had the scare of my life last week and now I don't know what to do about it.

I became sick during the night and if it had been a heart attack I would have died. He was not able to call a doctor because he couldn't read the phone book. He was too ashamed to go to the neighbors and ask for their help.

This man is 48 years old and he blames me because I didn't teach him when we were first married. I did try but he couldn't learn. Please tell me what to do. It's making me nervous.—R.

Dear R.: You must get a tutor to teach your husband how to read and write. Contact a high school or college and ask if they will recommend a student who can work with your husband on weekends or evenings.

It is dangerous to be illiterate —and in this day and age there is no excuse for it.

Nurse's Advice

Dear Ann: Recently you printed a letter from a woman whose husband was unsympathetic when she was going through the menopause. He claimed she was faking to get sympathy. You set him straight.

Now I'd like to add another angle. Be good to your men, Gals, when they get into the late 40s and early 50s. They may be in the same boat.

As a hospital nurse I'm well aware that males often suffer a glandular bounce-back, too. They just hate to think of it in the same terms but it's the same whether they admit it or not.

They won't own up to hot flashes or spells of depression. They just say they suddenly get to feeling very warm and then cold. They blame their feeling of depression on business pressures.

So, Girls, if your man seems unsympathetic it may be that he needs your sympathy because he's going through the same thing.

Note To Readers

Dear Readers: Will you help me find my oldest and my youngest readers?

Recently I had a letter from a woman who lives in Portland, Ore. She is 94 years old and may hold the record.

I also would like to know who is my youngest reader. No fair if someone reads the column to you. You must be able to read it yourself.

Of course your identity will be kept confidential. Will you drop me a line?—ANN LANDERS.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bringing Up A Family

Youthful Back-Talker Causes Trouble

Dr. Garry Meyers

Many a mother is vexed and embarrassed when a child talks back to her. From California a mother writes of her daughter, 12: "She seems to take great delight in talking back to me and being rude, especially in front of her Dad. "Now perhaps it wouldn't be so bad, but he often sides with her because — as he puts it — I get too angry. I have talked privately many times to him about this. He agrees Susie should not talk back to me, but doesn't like the way I handle the situation — therefore he sides with her. "Apparently, I will not get his co-operation in the matter.

—:—

"IS THERE anything I can do to rectify the matter by myself? Sometimes Susie does this in front of company and then it is really embarrassing."

My reply in part:

Since your husband agrees that your daughter should not talk back, you might win his co-operation if you were to control your tongue and your ways of managing her.

When she talks back, you, in your anger, talk back to her. Don't let yourself talk back. So long as she is not abusive, let her talk about as long as she likes. Try to be as cool as a cucumber.

Don't change any decision which the child doesn't like. Expect her to obey and, if she doesn't do so in a reasonable time, set a penalty, other than tongue-lashing, which you are sure you can carry out. If you are not sure of a penalty, say nothing, do nothing.

MANY OTHER parents write of the child who talks back or argues when asked or told to do something he doesn't want to do, or when denied what he wishes. Here again the solution by the parent is to desist from talking back.

I never could see any sense in getting angry with a child if he doesn't choose to do what you ask him to do. It was a request. If said honestly as a request, it implied that the child was free to choose whether to do it or not. But when you get angry and say "You must," when the child does not accede, you admit it wasn't an honest request at all.

If you make a command, you imply that the child must obey or be punished. There's no reason then to argue or angrily talk back to him, is there?

The child's practice of talking back has usually grown out of the parent's too great eagerness to explain and her indecisiveness. Usually the parent waits too long to act, waits until both she and the child are angry at each other.

PARENTS WITH tots could prevent their talking back then and when they become older, if they said "No" or "Don't" to these tots when necessary, in a moderate tone just once and never repeated a positive command, being first sure it was reasonable and then tied their tongues and loosened their hands.

U.S. Has Safest Eight Months In Traffic History

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation had its safest eight months of highway travel in history from January through August 1960, the National Safety Council said today.

The record low mileage death rate was set despite a slight increase in fatalities compared to the first eight months of 1959, the council said. It gauges highway safety on the basis of miles traveled, and the mileage thus far this year increased 2 per cent over last year.

There were 5.1 deaths per 100 million motor vehicle miles in 1960. The previous record low—5.2 per 100 million—was set in 1958.

The council counted 24,010 highway fatalities from Jan. 1 to Sept. 1, compared to 23,860 for the same period last year. Disabling injuries this year totaled 850,000. The death toll in August was 3,470 compared to 3,510 in August 1959.

The islands that comprise New Zealand stretch through the ocean for a distance of more than a thousand miles.

The Sports Bench

By BOB DUFFY
Sports Editor

Pirates In Six Games? . . .

The Pirates in six games. That's the prediction from this corner, and only a gang of power-happy Yankees could make us wrong.

We like the Pirates in the first two games at Forbes Field, look for them to salvage one out of three in New York, then come back to win the sixth game at Pittsburgh.

Thirty-three years is a long time to wait, so the Bucs might as well take all the marbles this time.

The celebration Sunday at Gateway Center in Pittsburgh was a good indication of what to expect in the next week or so.

The Steel City has gone completely berserk and many new gimmicks have been devised among the many businesses.

One Pittsburgh tavern owner has come up with a pretty good sales pitch. Anyone watching the game in his establishment who orders a food or a beverage has a chance to win a new TV set if a Pirate hits a home run before the order is served.

Yanks Carry Heavy Bats . . .

LOOKING BACK to 1927, they say the Yankee power scared the Bucs. The situation holds true 33 years later in a sense that it will be New York hitting against the Pirates' great defensive outfit and all-around pitching.

While the Yanks carry the heavier bats, Casey Stengel admitted in an Associated Press story that his team can't match the defensive excellence of the Pirates.

Pittsburgh infielders Don Hoak, Bill Mazeroski and Dick Groat also have an edge in hitting over Yankees Bobby Richardson at second, Tony Kubek shortstop and Gil McDougald or Cletis Boyer at third.

New York's advantage comes in the outfield where Mickey Mantle, with his power from both sides of the plate, gets the nod over Billy Virdon.

In rightfield, Roger Maris is among the American League leaders in home runs and is labeled very dangerous, but Roberto Clemente is hitting 34 points higher than the Yankee slugger.

The teams are pretty evenly matched in left field, with Bob Skinner of the Pirates and Hector Lopez of New York.

Among the pinch-hitters who will see action for the Yankees is ex-Pirate Dale Long, who is remembered mainly for hitting home runs in eight consecutive games while wearing a Pittsburgh uniform.

—:—

HOW ABOUT batting averages today compared with 33 years ago, someone asked. When the New York Yankees came to Pittsburgh in 1927 Lou Gehrig was batting .373, while Babe Ruth carried a .356 average and had belted 60 home runs that year.

Today in the National League, Dick Groat, Norm Larker and Willie Mays are battling for the title, all hitting close to .325. In the American League, it's even worse. Pete Runnels of Boston is leading the parade with .317.

How Sweet It Is? . . .

This may come as a shock but Bob Prince told Pittsburgh newsmen Thursday he "will not sound like a die-hard Pirate fan in his commentary of the World Series."

Prince and Mel Allen will do the play-by-play over NBC. The "voice of the pirates" feels there will be just as many Yankee fans as there are Pirates supporters. "I'll be objective right down the middle," he said.

So fans, don't expect Prince to shout "how sweet it is," when a Pirate hits a home run or "we had 'em all the way" when and if the Pirates win.

He will continue to call Don Hoak "Tiger" because, as Prince put it, "Bill Skowron of the Yankees is called Moose."

Prince will not refer to Dick Schofield as the "Duck," to Bill Virdon as the "Quail" or to Bob Skinner as "Doggie."

The Pittsburgh announcer means well, but can he do it after using his homemade phrases for 154 games during the regular season.

Waterford's Betting Off . . .

WATERFORD PARK'S attendance and mutuels have been way down.

On Saturday, opening day, 4,491 fans bet $271,388, but during the week the betting fell way off. On Tuesday only 1,747 were in the stands, one of the smallest crowds in the track's history. The betting only hit $85,000.

Monday saw $112,510 go through the windows with 1,860 in attendance and Wednesday the betting picked up to $121,358, with almost 2,000 on hand.

Thursday's count was $116,443 with 1,838 fans attending.

In an effort to improve the situation, Horace Wade, racing secretary, has moved the post time to 3 p. m. during week days. It will remain at 2 p. m. on Saturdays. The new post time will become effective Monday.

This 'N That In Sports . . .

HITTING on 11 out of 14 last week, we boosted our percentage considerably, but will follow a cautious path this week around the local high school circuit.

East Liverpool isn't going to score any 60-0 victory over New Philly tonight, as was the case last season. The Quakers are much bigger defensively. However we'll stick with the Potters, 26-14.

We look for a rout at Wellsville when two district rivals lock horns. The Tigers should overpower Chester to the tune of 42-8.

If Ellsworth defeats South Side it will be close. We will take Ellsworth, 26-19.

Looking over the other contests, Poland 31, Lisbon 14; East Palestine 28, Leetonia 6; Minerva 20, Columbiana 14; Strasburg 22, Stanton Local 8; Cameron 20, New Cumberland 13, and Salem 14, Farrell 8.

Saturday's games look like Beaver Local 28, Salineville 6; Wayne 35, Newell 6; United 14, Greenford 6; Fairfield - Waterford 22, North Lima 14.

Venditti Sends ELHS After 3rd Straight

The East Livrepool Potters will attempt to push their winning streak to three straight when they bang shoulder pads with New Philadelphia tonight at Patterson Field. The kickoff will be at 7:45.

Since the crushing 42-0 defeat at the hands of mighty Massillon, East Liverpool has built the foundation for a winning season by tripping Youngstown and Girard on successive Friday nights.

The Potters and New Philly are old gridiron acquaintances and will be meeting for the 39th time tonight. East Liverpool has won the last two games.

Coach Bill Kidd's team will be remembering the 60-0 loss to ELHS last season at New Philly. The Quakers were a young bunch in 1959, but have that added year of experience now.

The New Philly gridders are also bigger, especially the middle of the defensive line which averages 200 pounds. George Henley, a 230-pound giant, anchors the defensive forward wall.

New Philly And Potters Meet On Gridiron For 39th Time

Kidd, who is in his 14th year at New Philly, ran into a problem after the 27-0 win over Barnesville last week. In that game, regular halfback Tim Richards suffered a broken hand and may not get into tonight's clash. Richards is the fastest man on the squad.

The leading ground gainer and scorer on the team is Philly's 200-pound fullback Frank Duda, who tallied three touchdowns against Barnesville. New Philly is 1-1, losing to Columbus East, 14-6.

Coach Lou Venditti gave his team a night off Wednesday and held a light practice Thursday. The Potter coach reported all the boys in top shape.

The lineup will remain the same, with Kenny Cunningham, Joe Thompson, Allen Douglas and John Goodballet in the backfield.

The offensive line will show Mike Geon and Tim Archer at ends, Joe Smith and Skip Hall at tackles, Larry Crook and Glynn Mays at guards and Gary Montgomery at center.

The Potter line was hampered last week against Girard when Hall, the sparkplug of the forward wall, was ejected from the game early in the second period.

Hall, a two-year veteran, who weighs 185, is the biggest lineman the Potters have on the starting unit.

The series with New Philadelphia dates back to 1913.

Big Ten Race Gets Started On Saturday

By The Associated Press

The Big Ten championship football race starts Saturday with Iowa invading Northwestern and Michigan going to Michigan State.

In other games, Indiana is at Minnesota, West Virginia at Illinois, Purdue at Notre Dame, Southern California at Ohio State and Marquette at Wisconsin.

In each game, the home team has been made the favorite by odds-makers.

Northwestern, a touchdown choice, will rotate quarterbacks Bobby Eickhoff and sophomore Fred Quinn against Iowa in the absence of All-America candidate Dick Thornton, sidelined with a severe charleyhorse.

Thornton, who broke his ankle in the opening play of last year's Iowa game and was lost for the season, guided the Wildcats over Oklahoma 19-3. But his injury was aggravated and he needed hospital attention after returning home.

The Hawkeyes, who lost to Northwestern 14-10 last year, tuned up for the conference opener by trimming Oregon State 22-12.

Michigan State, playing at home before a capacity crowd of 76,000, is a touchdown favorite over Michigan in the storied series.

The Wolverines, with sophomore quarterback Dave Glinka at the controls, were impressive in blanking Oregon 21-0 with 55 players getting into the frolic. MSU gained 171 yards on the ground and 188 in the air but had to settle for a 7-7 deadlock at Pittsburgh.

Other odds favor Illinois by 26 points over West Virginia, loser of its first two games to Maryland and Virginia Tech; Minnesota by 7 over Indiana, whose games do not count in the standings; Notre Dame by 3 over Purdue, Ohio State by 12 over USC and Wisconsin by 16 over Marquette.

Brooks Leads St. Aloysius To 51-19 Win

Halfback Bob Brooks ran for four touchdowns in leading St. Aloysius to a 51-19 victory over the Chester Colts Thursday at Chester's City Park.

St. Aloysius Gridders Will Hold 'Tag Day'

The St. Aloysius football team will hold a "tag day" Saturday in the downtown area. All proceeds will go toward the purchase of football equipment.

The win marked the second straight for the Irish who decisioned Midland Presentation School last week.

Two of Brooks' TD's came on runs of 60 yards. Jim Hissom added two more touchdowns and an extra point while Chuck Winters rambled 40 yards with an intercepted pass and carried over a conversion.

Tackle Ricky Yanni made the scoring column when he recovered a teammate's fumble in the Chester end zone for a touchdown.

Tackle Jay Gillespie was the defensive star for the Irish Thursday.

Ridzik's Four-Hitter Evens Series For Leafs

TORONTO (AP) —Steve Ridzik pitched a 4-hitter for the Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night for a 10-1 victory over Louisville to tie the Little World Series at 1-1.

Southpaw Dick Rehm, who couldn't complete the first inning, was tagged with the defeat.

Steve Demeter led a 16-hit Toronto attack with two homers.

The clubs play again tonight before the series shifts to Louisville for the remaining necessary games. Southpaw ace Bob Hendley will be on the mound for the Colonels, facing Toronto lefthander Bob (Riverboat) Smith.

One Of Browns' Largest Crowds Expected Sunday

CLEVELAND (AP)—With favorable weather, one of Cleveland's largest pro football crowds may turn out Sunday to watch the rookie-sprinkled Browns try to accomplish what last year's club couldn't—beat Coach Buddy Parker's Pittsburgh Steelers.

To beat the Steelers, considered one of the most likely contenders for the National Football League's Eastern Conference championship, the Browns will have to stop what Parker regards as an aerial attack second to none.

Bobby Layne, the blond Texan who has gained more pass yardage in his career than any other NFL quarterback, is the thrower for Pittsburgh, and Layne particularly likes to whip the Browns. He's done this eight times, including three out of four championship games when he was pitching for the Parker - coached Detroit Lions.

With such receivers as Buddy Dial, Jimmy Orr and Preston Carpenter as targets, Layne will be difficult to stop Sunday.

Coach Paul Brown apparently is gearing his preparations to check the Steeler offense. Nearly all of Thursday's two-hour workout at League Park was on defense. Films of last week's game in Philadelphia showed up some weaknesses.

Jim Shofner, defensive back, was one of the more interested viewers of the film. He was knocked out making a tackle two minutes before the halftime intermission but stayed in the game. He said he didn't recall what happened during those two minutes after he came to, but fortunately Norm Van Brocklin, Eagles passer, made his touchdown bid on the other side from Shofner.

Ohio State Ready For Mystery Club

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Southern California's mystery team moves into town today, ready to give a Trojan test Saturday to Ohio State's small, fast and eager Buckeyes.

The coast club is tabbed as a mystery outfit, having lost four in a row after starting with eight straight wins a year ago. This year the practically all-veteran Trojans have bowed 14-0 to Oregon State and 7-6 to Texas Christian.

But Coach Woody Hayes and his Ohio cohorts aren't viewing the clash with any great degree of equanimity.

They recall, vividly, last year's tussle with the Trojans on the coast. In that one Southern Cal rolled up a 17 to 0 conquest. It was the first time since 1955 that the Bucks were blanked by a nonconference foe.

Despite the 24-0 win over a so-so Southern Methodist team in last week's opener, Ohio's potential is still unknown. The Bucks have triumphed in only one of their last four tilts, and the Mustangs—held to 25 yards rushing—were hardly a test on which to construct any high hopes.

Southern Cal's big bugaboo this season has been surrender of the ball on seven fumbles and four pass interceptions. Largely as a result, the Trojans have been outgained 378 to 222 yards on the ground and 176 to 174 through the airlanes.

Hayes says his halfbacks, who carried the ball only seven times against SMU, will get more of a workout this time. Bob Klein, the speedy sophomore from Athens, Mich., who carried once against SMU for a three-yard loss, has a bad leg and will surrender his starting berth to Billy Wentz, the senior from Canton. Ed Ulmer, Brookfield sophomore who failed to gain in four attempts, will stay at right half.

Headed by the famed McKeever twins, guard Mike and end Marlin, the Trojan offensive line averages 226 pounds to Ohio's defensive 203, and the backfield has a 181 to 176-pound edge. But the Buck defenders have speed and experience.

Erratic ball handling could cause the Trojans plenty of trouble here. The Bucks intercepted two passes, both by Jim Herbstreit, and recovered two SMU bobbles, so they are alert as well as fast and smart.

The stadium is a sellout, assuring a crowd of at least 82,600. The kickoff is scheduled at 1:30 p.m. (EST). Between halves the university will honor its 1960 Olympic participants—track coach Larry Snyder, 400-meter hurdle champion Glenn Davis, diver Sam Hall, basketball star Jerry Lucas, and weight-lifters James George and John Pulskamp.

Casey Assembles His 'Spies' On Pirates

NEW YORK (AP)—All Casey Stengel knows about the Pittsburgh Pirates is what he reads in the papers, but the papers in this case are very special papers.

They are the voluminous notes provided by the New York Yankee scouts and spies, and other informants, on the strength and weaknesses of the National League champions the New Yorkers meet in the World Series starting next Wednesday in Pittsburgh.

The Yankee manager took occasion Thursday, an off day, to assemble his board of spies.

Tribute Paid To Rowswell

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gov. Lawrence, the city of Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh Pirates have paid tribute to the memory of the late Rosey Rowswell, former Pirate radio announcer.

At a memorial dinner Thursday night, Lawrence described the late announcer as a "one-man ambassador to the rest of the world."

"Rosey had an understanding of people and a love for them," Lawrence said. "At heart, he was a partisan of human beings — the people who need help, who want guidance, the children who are homeless and have no place to go."

The governor said Rowswell was willing "to share with others—to share his talents, his energy and his time, and to rejoice with others."

Rowswell died Feb. 6, 1955 at the age of 70.

Guests at the dinner included the Pittsburgh Pirates and local government, civic and sports personalities. Several spoke in tribute to Rowswell.

Proceeds of the dinner will go to the Ward Home for Children in suburban Mount Lebanon, Rowswell's favorite charity.

Pirates In Six Games? . . .

The Pirates in six games. That's the prediction from this corner, and only a gang of power-happy Yankees could make us wrong.

We like the Pirates in the first two games at Forbes Field, look for them to salvage one out of three in New York, then come back to win the sixth game at Pittsburgh.

Thirty-three years is a long time to wait, so the Bucs might as well take all the marbles this time.

The celebration Sunday at Gateway Center in Pittsburgh was a good indication of what to expect in the next week or so.

The Steel City has gone completely berserk and many new gimmicks have been devised among the many businesses.

One Pittsburgh tavern owner has come up with a pretty good sales pitch. Anyone watching the game in his establishment who orders a food or a beverage has a chance to win a new TV set if a Pirate hits a home run before the order is served.

Yanks Carry Heavy Bats . . .

LOOKING BACK to 1927, they say the Yankee power scared the Bucs. The situation holds true 33 years later in a sense that it will be New York hitting against the Pirates' great defensive outfit and all-around pitching.

While the Yanks carry the heavier bats, Casey Stengel admitted in an Associated Press story that his team can't match the defensive excellence of the Pirates.

Pittsburgh infielders Don Hoak, Bill Mazeroski and Dick Groat also have an edge in hitting over Yankees Bobby Richardson at second, Tony Kubek shortstop and Gil McDougald or Cletis Boyer at third.

New York's advantage comes in the outfield where Mickey Mantle, with his power from both sides of the plate, gets the nod over Billy Virdon.

In rightfield, Roger Maris is among the American League leaders in home runs and is labeled very dangerous, but Roberto Clemente is hitting 34 points higher than the Yankee slugger.

The teams are pretty evenly matched in left field, with Bob Skinner of the Pirates and Hector Lopez of New York.

Among the pinch-hitters who will see action for the Yankees is ex-Pirate Dale Long, who is remembered mainly for hitting home runs in eight consecutive games while wearing a Pittsburgh uniform.

—:—

HOW ABOUT batting averages today compared with 33 years ago, someone asked. When the New York Yankees came to Pittsburgh in 1927 Lou Gehrig was batting .373, while Babe Ruth carried a .356 average and had belted 60 home runs that year.

Today in the National League, Dick Groat, Norm Larker and Willie Mays are battling for the title, all hitting close to .325. In the American League, it's even worse. Pete Runnels of Boston is leading the parade with .317.

How Sweet It Is? . . .

This may come as a shock but Bob Prince told Pittsburgh newsmen Thursday he "will not sound like a die-hard Pirate fan in his commentary of the World Series."

Prince and Mel Allen will do the play-by-play over NBC. The "voice of the pirates" feels there will be just as many Yankee fans as there are Pirates supporters. "I'll be objective right down the middle," he said.

So fans, don't expect Prince to shout "how sweet it is," when a Pirate hits a home run or "we had 'em all the way" when and if the Pirates win.

He will continue to call Don Hoak "Tiger" because, as Prince put it, "Bill Skowron of the Yankees is called Moose."

Prince will not refer to Dick Schofield as the "Duck," to Bill Virdon as the "Quail" or to Bob Skinner as "Doggie."

The Pittsburgh announcer means well, but can he do it after using his homemade phrases for 154 games during the regular season.

Waterford's Betting Off . . .

WATERFORD PARK'S attendance and mutuels have been way down.

On Saturday, opening day, 4,401 fans bet $271,300, but during the week the betting fell way off. On Tuesday only 1,747 were in the stands, one of the smallest crowds in the track's history. The betting only hit $85,000.

Monday saw $112,510 go through the windows with 1,860 in attendance and Wednesday the betting picked up to $121,360, with almost 2,000 on hand.

Thursday's count was $116,443 with 1,830 fans attending.

In an effort to improve the situation, Horace Wade, racing secretary, has moved the post time to 3 p. m. during week days. It will remain at 2 p. m. on Saturdays. The new post time will become effective Monday.

This 'N That In Sports . . .

HITTING on 11 out of 14 last week, we boosted our percentage considerably, but will follow a cautious path this week around the local high school circuit.

East Liverpool isn't going to score any 60-0 victory over New Philly tonight, as was the case last season. The Quakers are much bigger defensively. However we'll stick with the Potters, 26-14.

We look for a rout at Wellsville when two district rivals lock horns. The Tigers should overpower Chester to the tune of 42-6.

If Ellsworth defeats South Side it will be close. We will take Ellsworth, 26-19.

Looking over the other contests, Poland 21, Lisbon 14; East Palestine 28, Leetonia 6; Minerva 20, Columbiana 14; Strasburg 22, Stanton Local 8; Cameron 20, New Cumberland 13, and Salem 14, Farrell 8.

Saturday's games look like Beaver Local 20, Salineville 6; Wayne 35, Newell 6; United 14, Greenford 6; Fairfield - Waterford 22, North Lima 14.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Southern California's mystery team moves into town today, ready to give a Trojan test Saturday to Ohio State's small, fast and eager Buckeyes.

The coast club is tabbed as a mystery outfit, having lost four in a row after starting with eight straight wins a year ago. This year the practically all-veteran Trojans have bowed 14-0 to Oregon State and 7-6 to Texas Christian.

But Coach Woody Hayes and his Ohio cohorts aren't viewing the clash with any great degree of equanimity.

They recall, vividly, last year's tussle with the Trojans on the coast. In that one Southern Cal rolled up a 17 to 0 conquest. It was the first time since 1955 that the Bucks were blanked by a non-conference foe.

Despite the 24-0 win over a so-so Southern Methodist team in last week's opener, Ohio's potential is still unknown. The Bucks have triumphed in only one of their last four tilts, and the Mustangs—held to 25 yards rushing—were hardly a test on which to construct any high hopes.

Southern Cal's big bugaboo this season has been surrender of the ball on seven fumbles and four pass interceptions. Largely as a result, the Trojans have been outgained 379 to 222 yards on the ground and 176 to 174 through the airlanes.

Hayes says his halfbacks, who carried the ball only seven times against SMU, will get more of a workout this time. Bob Klein, the speedy sophomore from Athens, Mich., who carried once against SMU for a three-yard loss, has a bad leg and will surrender his starting berth to Billy Wentz, the senior from Canton. Ed Ulmer, Brookfield sophomore who failed to gain in four attempts, will stay at right half.

Headed by the famed McKeever twins, guard Mike and end Marlin, the Trojan offensive line averages 220 pounds to Ohio's defensive 203, and the backfield has a 181 to 176-pound edge. But the Buck defenders have speed and experience.

Erratic ball handling could cause the Trojans plenty of trouble here. The Bucks intercepted two passes, both by Jim Herbstreit, and recovered two SMU bobbles, so they are alert as well as fast and smart.

The stadium is a sellout, assuring a crowd of at least 82,000. The kickoff is scheduled at 1:30 p.m. (EST). Between halves the university will honor its 1960 Olympic participants—track coach Larry Snyder, 400-meter hurdle champion Glenn Davis, diver Sam Hall, basketball star Jerry Lucas, and weight-lifters James George and John Pulskamp.

Casey Assembles His 'Spies' On Pirates

NEW YORK (AP)—All Casey Stengel knows about the Pittsburgh Pirates is what he reads in the papers, but the papers in this case are very special papers.

They are the voluminous notes provided by the New York Yankee scouts and spies, and other informants, on the strength and weaknesses of the National League champions the New Yorkers meet in the World Series starting next Wednesday in Pittsburgh.

The Yankee manager took occasion Thursday, an off day, to assemble his board of spies.

Big Ten Race Gets Started On Saturday

By The Associated Press

In other games, Indiana is at Minnesota, West Virginia at Illinois, Purdue at Notre Dame, Southern California at Ohio State and Marquette at Wisconsin.

In each game, the home team has been made the favorite by odds-makers.

Northwestern, a touchdown choice, will rotate quarterbacks Bobby Eickhoff and sophomore Fred Quinn against Iowa in the absence of All-America candidate Dick Thornton, sidelined with a severe charleyhorse.

Thornton, who broke his ankle in the opening play of last year's Iowa game and was lost for the season, guided the Wildcats over Oklahoma 19-3. But his injury was aggravated and he needed hospital attention after returning home.

The Hawkeyes, who lost to Northwestern 14-10 last year, tuned up for the conference opener by trimming Oregon State 22-12.

Michigan State, playing at home before a capacity crowd of 76,000, is a touchdown favorite over Michigan in the storied series.

The Wolverines, with sophomore quarterback Dave Glinka at the controls, were impressive in blanking Oregon 21-0 with 55 players getting into the frolic. MSU gained 171 yards on the ground and 188 in the air but had to settle for a 7-7 deadlock at Pittsburgh.

Other odds favor Illinois by 26 points over West Virginia, loser of its first two games to Maryland and Virginia Tech; Minnesota by 7 over Indiana, whose games do not count in the standings; Notre Dame by 3 over Purdue, Ohio State by 12 over USC and Wisconsin by 16 over Marquette.

Tribute Paid To Rowswell

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gov. Lawrence, the city of Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh Pirates have paid tribute to the memory of the late Rosey Rowswell, former Pirate radio announcer.

At a memorial dinner Thursday night, Lawrence described the late announcer as a "one-man ambassador to the rest of the world."

"Rosey had an understanding of people and a love for them," Lawrence said. "At heart, he was a partisan of human beings — the people who need help, who want guidance, the children who are homeless and have no place to go."

The governor said Rowswell was willing "to share with others—to share his talents, his energy and his time, and to rejoice with others."

Rowswell died Feb. 6, 1955 at the age of 70.

Guests at the dinner included the Pittsburgh Pirates and local government, civic and sports personalities. Several spoke in tribute to Rowswell.

St. Aloysius Gridders Will Hold 'Tag Day'

The St. Aloysius football team will hold a "tag day" Saturday in the downtown area. All proceeds will go toward the purchase of football equipment.

The win marked the second straight for the Irish who decisioned Midland Presentation School last week.

Two of Brooks' TD's came on runs of 60 yards. Jim Hissom added two more touchdowns and an extra point while Chuck Winters rambled 40 yards with an intercepted pass and carried over a conversion.

Tackle Ricky Yanni made the scoring column when he recovered a teammate's fumble in the Chester end zone for a touchdown.

Tackle Jay Gillespie was the defensive star for the Irish Thursday.

Chester's scoring came on a pair of touchdowns by Bill Wright, one of which was a 65-yard gallop, while Gary Davis added the other six-pointer.

Groat May Return To Bucs' Lineup Tonight; Yankees Shoot For Win, Home Run Records

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates may give injured shortstop Dick Groat a comeback tryout tonight while the New York Yankees, zeroing in on their World Series date with the Bucs, are busy trying for the majors' longest winning streak in six years and an American League home run record.

Groat, sparkplug of Pittsburgh's first National League pennant winner in 33 years, hasn't played since Sept. 6. That was the night a slider thrown by Milwaukee's Lew Burdette broke his left wrist.

Now, with Milwaukee once more in Pittsburgh for a three-game season finale, Pirate manager Danny Murtaugh may decide to find out whether Groat will be of any help when the World Series opens at Forbes Field next Wednesday.

The Yankees, who give right-hander Art Ditmar (15-9) a final tuneup in tonight's game against Boston, will be shooting for their 13th consecutive victory in the opener of the three-game set against the Red Sox. No major league club has won 13 in a row since the 1954 Yankees.

The American League champs also need just one home run to break the league mark of 190 they set in 1956.

St. Louis beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 in 10 innings Thursday night in the only game scheduled in the majors.

The Cards, winning on Ken Boyer's one-out double off reliever Larry Sherry (14-10) pulled within one game of the Braves again in their scrap for second place. Larry Jackson won his 18th with the help of reliever Lindy McDaniel's 27th save in the 10th after the Dodgers put the tying run on base.

Eligibility Squabble Puts Star Gridder On Sideline

CINCINNATI (AP)— Seventeen-year-old Steve Pruitt, a star tackle, will be watching from the stands tonight when Taylor High School meets Harrison in football.

The Ohio High School Athletic Association won't allow Steve to play for Taylor and he won't play for Harrison.

The squabble may wind up in the courts.

When Steve, an orphan, entered high school three years ago, he lived with a sister, Ruth Lewis, in the Taylor school district and attended the high school there.

Last year the sister moved to Harrison. She didn't have enough room in her home and, besides, Steve wanted to stay at Taylor. So the youth rented a room in Cleves (in the Taylor district) and paid his expenses from his Social Security survivors' benefits checks and money he earned working in a supermarket.

This fall, however, W. J. McConnell, commissioner of the OHSAA, ruled Steve not eligible to play with the Taylor team and that if he wanted to compete he'd have to move in with his sister again and play at Harrison.

Steve enrolled at Harrison for a week and then decided he wanted to go back to Taylor regardless of whether he could play football.

A group of Taylor fans, headed by former coach Sam Montague Jr., appealed McConnell's ruling to the OHSAA board of control but lost.

Then they took the case to the Hamilton County prosecutor.

Thursday, Asst. Prosecutor George S. Heitzler gave an opinion that Steve is a bona fide resident of the Taylor district and that he has the right to select his own "guardian of his person."

Heitzler added that Seve's sister is not his legal guardian and that neither she nor the OHSAA has any right to determine where he will live and attend school.

Conference Tilts Feature Ohio Scene

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Crucial contests are popping up early on Ohio's collegiate gridirons.

Saturday's 21 - game schedule, featuring eight with out-of-state opponents, will enlighten some of the conference situations. Four tilts send unbeaten-untied squads against each other on the home front, all in conference play.

Otterbein, the state's top scorer with 100 points in two games, entertains Heidelberg's two-game winners at Westerville; Wittenberg, with two conquests, goes against impressive Muskingum at New Concord, and unbeaten Wooster and Kenyon clash at Gambier in Ohio Conference events.

The big one in the Mid-American loop sends defending champion Bowling Green against Miami at Oxford. Each won its opening league game, and one must fall among the also-rans. Ohio University, a two - time victor, goes against unbeaten Kent State at Kent in the latter's league inaugural, and Toledo and Marshall, each with one defeat in conference play, meet at Huntington.

Having lost only four of 19 interstate games this season, the Buckeye clubs get a chance to enhance the record. Ohio State entertains Southern California, and other interstate tilts are Toledo-Marshall, Cincinnati-North Texas State, W. & J.-Western Reserve, Detroit-Xavier, Baldwin Wallace-Western Michigan, Villanova-Dayton and Wheaton-Central State.

Also on the slate are Ohio Wesleyan at Capital, Oberlin at Hiram, Akron at Denison and Marietta at Mount Union in the Ohio Conference; Case Tech at John Carroll in the Presidents' loop; Ohio Northern at Wilmington, Findlay at Ashland, and Defiance at Bluffton in the Mid-Ohio.

Son Of Wesleyan Cage Coach Dies Of Grid Injury

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 15-year-old son of Ohio Wesleyan University's basketball coach died Thursday night in White Cross Hospital here of a brain injury received in football practice with the Delaware Willis High School team.

Frank Shannon Jr., a 190-pound, 6-foot-1 sophomore, was injured Wednesday evening. He was tackled and, after coming out of a pileup of players, complained of being dizzy. A few minutes later he lapsed into a coma.

Rushed to Jane M. Case Hospital in Delaware, he was transferred later to White Cross where a brain surgeon operated on him.

He was the oldest of four sons of Frank Shannon Sr., who came from Urbana High School two years ago to coach basketball at Ohio Wesleyan.

Young Shannon played second-string quarterback and first-string defensive halfback. He also played basketball and baseball at the school. His brother, George, 14, is on the Willis Junior High School football team.

Casey Wins Nod Over Hank, Sets Sights On Title

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Middleweight Hank Casey, virtually unknown six months ago, battled his way into a strong position for a title fight with his victory over favored Henry Hank Thursday night.

Although both boxers weighed 159 pounds at the Cow Palace, Henry Hank carried the heavier artillery. But San Francisco's Casey frustrated him with superior boxing and defensive strategy.

Hank, the No. 3 rated challenger from Detroit, had split two previous meetings with Casey. Thursday night he never could throw his devastating punches with effectiveness. Fighting for the first time in his home city, the Californian circled away from the power, scoring lefts and rights to the head when he saw openings.

Casey's manager, Billy Newman, said he had a telegram from manager Marv Jenson of champion Gene Fullmer promising a match if the titleholder turns back the challenge of Sugar Ray Robinson in Los Angeles Oct. 8.

'Brown Jug' Winner Shatters Pace Record

LEXINGTON, Ky (AP) — Little Brown Jug winner Bullet Hanover blazed around the famous Red Mile in 1:55 3-5 in a time trial Thursday to break the year-old world record for 3-year-old pacers.

The trial was staged during the regular Grand Circuit harness racing program of the Lexington trots.

Bullet Hanover, driven by John Simpson, lowered the mark of 1:55 4-5 set last year by Adios Butler.

Adios Butler, now a 4-year-old, will try later this week for the all-age world mark of 1:55, set here in 1938 by Bill Direct.

The featured $16,853.75 Hanover Shoe filly stake for 2-year-old pacers went to Way Wave, owned by Castleton Farm of Lexington. Poplar Nicki won the first heat,

The best bet of the day was Erin Town in the ninth. The 10-1 shot returned $22.80, $8.80 and $5.

Du Pont announces the first and only
NEVER DRAIN ANTI-FREEZE & SUMMER COOLANT
Telar
TRADEMARK

Contains patented Color ✓ Check to watch your cooling system for you!

Nobody wants to drain anti-freeze—and with Du Pont "Telar" you no longer have to!

"Telar" is the first and only anti-freeze you can safely leave in as long as your car's cooling system is mechanically okay. "Telar" is a summer coolant, too. And it contains patented Color Check to watch your cooling system for you.

Aren't there other anti-freezes you don't have to drain? None! Manufacturers of all other anti-freezes recommend draining.

Why doesn't "Telar" need draining? "Telar" is a patented new formula exclusive with Du Pont. It stands up and stays fresh where others break down. When mixed with ordinary water, it rust-proofs every engine metal—even the new aluminum alloys—with a chemical armor. This chemical armor is not just a film that can wear off; it becomes part of the metal surface, preventing rust from forming.

How does "Telar" maintain cooling in summer? "Telar" has a higher boiling point than water. "Telar" prevents rust clogging, chief cause of engine overheating; it keeps the cooling system clean and free flowing. It's ideal for cars with air conditioning.

What is Color Check? It's an exclusive feature of "Telar". If mechanical cooling system failure contaminates the solution of "Telar", Color Check tells you so by changing the solution's color from red to yellow. It is the only time you drain and replace "Telar". In Du Pont's five years of tests this rarely happened.

What about cost? "Telar" saves you money. It lasts year after year. You buy only the degree of anti-freeze protection your climate requires. Any make-up occasionally needed to replace normal loss is slight.

Only $5.00 per gallon for the ultimate cooling system protection!

Eligibility Squabble Puts Star Gridder On Sideline

CINCINNATI (AP)— Seventeen-year-old Steve Pruitt, a star tackle, will be watching from the stands tonight when Taylor High School meets Harrison in football.

The Ohio High School Athletic Association won't allow Steve to play for Taylor and he won't play for Harrison.

The squabble may wind up in the courts.

When Steve, an orphan, entered high school three years ago, he lived with a sister, Ruth Lewis, in the Taylor school district and attended the high school there.

Last year the sister moved to Harrison. She didn't have enough room in her home and, besides, Steve wanted to stay at Taylor. So the youth rented a room in Cleves (in the Taylor district) and paid his expenses from his Social Security survivors' benefits checks and money he earned working in a supermarket.

This fall, however, W. J. McConnell, commissioner of the OHSAA, ruled Steve not eligible to play with the Taylor team and that if he wanted to compete he'd have to move in with his sister again and play at Harrison.

Steve enrolled at Harrison for a week and then decided he wanted to go back to Taylor regardless of whether he could play football.

A group of Taylor fans, headed by former coach Sam Montague Jr., appealed McConnell's ruling to the OHSAA board of control but lost.

Then they took the case to the Hamilton County prosecutor.

Thursday, Asst. Prosecutor George S. Heitzler gave an opinion that Steve is a bona fide resident of the Taylor district and that he has the right to select his own "guardian of his person."

Heitzler added that Seve's sister is not his legal guardian and that neither she nor the OHSAA has any right to determine where he will live and attend school.

Conference Tilts Feature Ohio Scene

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Crucial contests are popping up early on Ohio's collegiate gridirons.

Saturday's 21 - game schedule, featuring eight with out-of-state opponents, will enlighten some of the conference situations. Four tilts send unbeaten-untied squads against each other on the home front, all in conference play.

Otterbein, the state's top scorer with 100 points in two games, entertains Heidelberg's two-game winners at Westerville; Wittenberg, with two conquests, goes against impressive Muskingum at New Concord, and unbeaten Wooster and Kenyon clash at Gambier in Ohio Conference events.

The big one in the Mid-American loop sends defending champion Bowling Green against Miami at Oxford. Each won its opening league game, and one must fall among the also-rans. Ohio University, a two - time victor, goes against unbeaten Kent State at Kent in the latter's league inaugural, and Toledo and Marshall, each with one defeat in conference play, meet at Huntington.

Having lost only four of 19 interstate games this season, the Buckeye clubs get a chance to enhance the record. Ohio State entertains Southern California, and other interstate tilts are Toledo-Marshall, Cincinnati-North Texas State, W. & J.-Western Reserve, Detroit-Xavier, Baldwin Wallace-Western Michigan, Villanova-Dayton and Wheaton-Central State.

Also on the slate are Ohio Wesleyan at Capital, Oberlin at Hiram, Akron at Denison and Marietta at Mount Union in the Ohio Conference; Case Tech at John Carroll in the Presidents' loop; Ohio Northern at Wilmington, Findlay at Ashland, and Defiance at Bluffton in the Mid-Ohio.

Son Of Wesleyan Cage Coach Dies Of Grid Injury

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 15-year-old son of Ohio Wesleyan University's basketball coach died Thursday night in White Cross Hospital here of a brain injury received in football practice with the Delaware Willis High School team.

Frank Shannon Jr., a 190-pound, 6-foot-1 sophomore, was injured Wednesday evening. He was tackled and, after coming out of a pileup of players, complained of being dizzy. A few minutes later he lapsed into a coma.

Rushed to Jane M. Case Hospital in Delaware, he was transferred later to White Cross where a brain surgeon operated on him.

He was the oldest of four sons of Frank Shannon Sr., who came from Urbana High School two years ago to coach basketball at Ohio Wesleyan.

Young Shannon played second-string quarterback and first-string defensive halfback. He also played basketball and baseball at the school. His brother, George, 14, is on the Willis Junior High School football team.

Casey Wins Nod Over Hank, Sets Sights On Title

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Middleweight Hank Casey, virtually unknown six months ago, battled his way into a strong position for a title fight with his victory over favored Henry Hank Thursday night.

Although both boxers weighed 159 pounds at the Cow Palace, Henry Hank carried the heavier artillery. But San Francisco's Casey frustrated him with superior boxing and defensive strategy.

Hank, the No. 3 rated challenger from Detroit, had split two previous meetings with Casey. Thursday night he never could throw his devastating punches with effectiveness. Fighting for the first time in his home city, the Californian circled away from the power, scoring lefts and rights to the head when he saw openings.

Casey's manager, Billy Newman, said he had a telegram from manager Marv Jenson of champion Gene Fullmer promising a match if the titleholder turns back the challenge of Sugar Ray Robinson in Los Angeles Oct. 8.

'Brown Jug' Winner Shatters Pace Record

LEXINGTON, Ky (AP) — Little Brown Jug winner Bullet Hanover blazed around the famous Red Mile in 1:55 3-5 in a time trial Thursday to break the year-old world record for 3-year-old pacers.

The trial was staged during the regular Grand Circuit harness racing program of the Lexington trots.

Bullet Hanover, driven by John Simpson, lowered the mark of 1:55 4-5 set last year by Adios Butler.

Adios Butler, now a 4-year-old, will try later this week for the all-age world mark of 1:55, set here in 1938 by Billy Direct.

Pauline Betz, Mr. M. P. Return $141 On Double

Waterford Park continued to pay handsome daily doubles Thursday when an 8-4 returned $141.60.

Jockey Albert Florio booted home Pauline Betz, a 10-1 shot, in the first race and brought $21.80, $7.60 and $3.60, while Mr. M. P. scored a victory in the second race and paid $8.80, $5 and $4.80.

The best bet of the day was Erin Town in the ninth. The 10-1 shot returned $22.80, $8.80 and $5.

A crowd of 1,838 was on hand for the nine-race card.

The Autumn Leaves Handicap will feature Saturday's card. Racing secretary Horace Wade is shooting for an 11-race program. Post time will be 2 p. m.

Du Pont announces the first and only
Telar

Contains patented Color Check to watch your cooling system for you!

Nobody wants to drain anti-freeze—and with Du Pont "Telar" you no longer have to!

"Telar" is the first and only anti-freeze you can safely leave in as long as your car's cooling system is mechanically okay. "Telar" is a summer coolant, too. And it contains patented Color Check to watch your cooling system for you.

Aren't there other anti-freezes you don't have to drain? None! Manufacturers of all other anti-freezes recommend draining.

Why doesn't "Telar" need draining? "Telar" is a patented new formula exclusive with Du Pont. It stands up and stays fresh where others break down. When mixed with ordinary water, it rust-proofs every engine metal—even the new aluminum alloys—with a chemical armor. This chemical armor is not just a film that can wear off; it becomes part of the metal surface, preventing rust from forming.

How does "Telar" maintain cooling in summer? "Telar" has a higher boiling point than water. "Telar" prevents rust clogging, chief cause of engine overheating; it keeps the cooling system clean and free flowing. It's ideal for cars with air conditioning.

What is Color Check? It's an exclusive feature of "Telar". If mechanical cooling system failure contaminates the solution of "Telar", Color Check tells you so by changing the solution's color from red to yellow. It is the only time you drain and replace "Telar". In Du Pont's five years of tests this rarely happened.

What about cost? "Telar" saves you money. It lasts year after year. You buy only the degree of anti-freeze protection your climate requires. Any make-up occasionally needed to replace normal loss is slight.

See your servicing dealer now! There's no reason to wait because "Telar" goes in for keeps, protects in warm weather as well as cold.

Only $5.00 per gallon for the ultimate cooling system protection!

The E. W. Bliss Co. has announced purchase of property adjacent to its Mackintosh-Hemphill Division facilities in Pittsburgh, for immediate use of storage and possible expansion later for additional machining capacity.

Bonn To Quit Trading With East Germany

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government served notice today it is cancelling the trade agreement between West and East Germany.

The action,-taken after top-level conferences was ordered as a countermove to mounting pressure by the Communists against divided and isolated West Berlin.

The cancellation notice orders erasure of the trade agreement by the end of this year.

Government authorities said Adenauer and his aides agreed Bonn would withdraw the cancellation if the Communists take the heat off Berlin.

Felix von Eckardt, press spokesman for the Bonn government said this meant the Communists would have to guarantee freedom of movement in and out of Berlin and within the city itself.

The East Germans have been applying pressure bit-by-bit restricting movement in Berlin, which lies 110 miles from the nearest point in West Germany, despite claims by Britain, France and the United States that they with the Soviet Union are the sole authorities over this phase of the city's life.

Today's action nullifies a trade agreement which provides for East-West trade totaling around two billion marks (about $470 million).

Von Echardt told a news conference the Western Allies had agreed to join in the trade embargo, provided a new contract is not negotiated by the end of this year. Renegotiation seemed unlikely since it would have to involve a major backdown on the part of the Communists.

Stolen Car Burns At Beaver Creek

Sheriff's deputies today pushed investigation of the theft and burning of a city man's 1955 sedan found in the Beaver Creek area Thursday night. Ohio Township and Midland volunteer firemen extinguished the flames.

The car, owned by Doffes Stower, 514½ Mulberry St., was stolen from the Davis garage on Putman St. after it had been left for repairs Sept. 23.

Thieves had apparently crossed ignition wires to get the motor started, and a short circuit probably caused the blaze deputies said this morning.

City police received a report of the fire about 11:37, and notified Midland and Ohio Township firemen, believing the blaze was over the Pennsylvania border.

However, later investigation showed the site was inside Ohio, and the sheriff's office at Lisbon was notified to conduct the investigation. The car was a complete loss, deputies said.

Sleeping Pills Foiled Bardot's Suicide Try

NICE, France (AP) — Brigitte Bardot's suicide attempt may have been foiled by the sleeping pills she took.

The film queen was found Wednesday night in a coma from an overdose of sleeping pills and with her wrists slashed. The first doctor to reach her said she apparently was so sleepy from the pills that when she tried to wield the razor blade the cuts were only superficial.

Former Rem-Cru Aide Promoted

Frank E. Budisak has been appointed placement co-ordinator with the Crucible Steel Co. to direct college and general recruiting programs and company-sponsored college level training programs.

When Crucible acquired full ownership of Rem-Cru and the plant became a division of Crucible's Midland Works in 1957, he was transferred to the employment office where he remained until his present appointment.

A native of New Brighton, Budisak attended Baldwin Wallace College and received a B.A. degree in economics.

He is a member of the Beaver Valley Personnel Association, Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and Midwest College Placement Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Budisak and their two children reside in New Brighton.

Mackintosh-Hemphill Buys Pittsburgh Land

The E. W. Bliss Co. has announced purchase of property adjacent to its Mackintosh-Hemphill Division facilities in Pittsburgh, for immediate use of storage and possible expansion later for additional machining capacity.

C. E. Peterson, manager, added, however, use as storage will release sufficient space in existing facilities to materially increase production. A railroad track joining the two properties will be constructed as soon as possible.

The division's Pittsburgh plant produces primarily cast iron rolls for the rolling mill industry and its steel foundry at Midland turns out cast steel rolls and heavy steel castings, employing a total of about 800 at the two plants. Peterson also announced that Marquis P. Orr has been appointed as general sales manager of the division. He has been manager of roll sales and joined the firm in 1941.

United PTA To Meet

Bonn To Quit Trading With East Germany

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government served notice today it is cancelling the trade agreement between West and East Germany.

The action, taken after top-level conferences was ordered as a countermove to mounting pressure by the Communists against divided and isolated West Berlin.

The cancellation notice orders erasure of the trade agreement by the end of this year.

Government authorities said Adenauer and his aides agreed Bonn would withdraw the cancellation if the Communists take the heat off Berlin.

Felix von Eckardt, press spokesman for the Bonn government said this meant the Communists would have to guarantee freedom of movement in and out of Berlin and within the city itself.

The East Germans have been applying pressure bit-by-bit restricting movement in Berlin, which lies 110 miles from the nearest point in West Germany, despite claims by Britain, France and the United States that they with the Soviet Union are the sole authorities over this phase of the city's life.

Today's action nullifies a trade agreement which provides for East-West trade totaling around two billion marks (about $470 million).

Von Echardt told a news conference the Western Allies had agreed to join in the trade embargo, provided a new contract is not negotiated by the end of this year. Renegotiation seemed unlikely since it would have to involve a major backdown on the part of the Communists.

Stolen Car Burns At Beaver Creek

Sheriff's deputies today pushed investigation of the theft and burning of a city man's 1955 sedan found in the Beaver Creek area Thursday night. Ohio Township and Midland volunteer firemen extinguished the flames.

The car, owned by Doffee Stower, 514½ Mulberry St., was stolen from the Davis garage on Putman St. after it had been left for repairs Sept. 23.

Thieves had apparently crossed ignition wires to get the motor started, and a short circuit probably caused the blaze deputies said this morning.

City police received a report of the fire about 11:27, and notified Midland and Ohio Township firemen, believing the blaze was over the Pennsylvania border.

However, later investigation showed the site was inside Ohio, and the sheriff's office at Lisbon was notified to conduct the investigation. The car was a complete loss, deputies said.

Sleeping Pills Foiled Bardot's Suicide Try

NICE, France (AP) — Brigitte Bardot's suicide attempt may have been foiled by the sleeping pills she took.

The film queen was found Wednesday night in a coma from an overdose of sleeping pills and with her wrists slashed. The first doctor to reach her said she apparently was so sleepy from the pills that when she tried to wield the razor blade the cuts were only superficial.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN CROSBY

Bernstein—A National Asset

John Crosby

x BERLIN

Leonard Bernstein faced an audience of 1,700 German students with superb assurance and told them about Beethoven. Beethoven, he said, was not German (in the sense that Debussy was French). He was universal.

I didn't know how well this thought would go down with a German audience. It went down very well, though. Later Bernstein got large laughs playing bits of Beethoven's Concerto No. 1 in C Major as it would be played by a Frenchman, a German, a Russian and an American.

(Privately, he will tell you Beethoven's C Major Concerto should be played only by Hungarians.)

-:-

LATER, HE SAT DOWN and tore through the whole concerto, giving a performance of superb brilliance and bravura. Actually, it was the second time he'd played it that day before an audience.

Earlier, during dress rehearsal for the television show he was then taping, he had played the whole concerto before a different audience.

Later that evening, he gave a concert for Eurovision and he played it a third time. This may be the only time a performer has ever done that concerto three times before three different audiences the same day.

He almost ran out of stamina for the third go-round — the sheer physical demands of that concerto are enormous — and he felt that his concentration was not what it should have been.

I THOUGHT again, as I have thought many times before, that Bernstein is a national asset beyond price.

He is a living refutation (one of the few we own) of the oft-heard charge that Americans are cultural barbarians. Conductor, composer, teacher, performer — he is all that and more. He's an individual as vivid as a flash of lightning, full of swagger and charm and the courage of his own eccentricities.

The Europeans have nothing like him — at least no one living.

Mr. Bernstein and the Philharmonic were flown to Berlin by the Ford Motor Co. because Charles Moore, vice president of Ford, felt this country wasn't adequately represented at the West Berlin Music Festival.

For the Berliners he conducted two concerts and for his own show (on tape) he played and conducted the Beethoven Concerto, all in three hectic days. (The show will be seen here on CBS-TV, possibly on Thanksgiving.)

-:-

IN BETWEEN rehearsals, concerts, receptions and newspaper interviews, Mr. Bernstein found time to attend Rosh Hashonah services. (He prefaced his Beethoven concerto with the Hebrew prayer: "May the Lord lift up His face to give you peace." The Germans applauded politely.)

And he sampled the nightlife. The night before his three-concert performance, he was out until 3:30 a.m., mostly in a joint called Rafifi, which is exuberantly lowbrow and stays open 24 hours a day.

Rafifi is about as far from Beethovan as you can get. It specializes in rock 'n' roll, if you must know—both on the jukebox and from the live performers who sing it and play it with sullen ferocity.

-:-

BERNSTEIN swept into Rafifi with his coat draped over his shoulders, looking like an amalgam of John Barrymore and Stravinsky, and watched a guitar-playing teenager howl rock 'n' roll with good-natured scorn.

"They do it so badly," he observed.

I got to thinking that not only is rock 'n' roll international — you can hear it from Tokyo to Istanbul now — but the expression of the singer (if that's what they are) is identical wherever you go.

It's a sort of snarling scowl, as unvarying as the terrible melodies (if that's what they are). Did you ever see a rock 'n' roll singer smile?

I sampled a good deal of night life myself in the land of Beethovan and Wagner and not once did I hear a song sung in German. I heard many French songs and, of course, scores of American songs — everything from Cole Porter to Hoagy Carmichael — and a few Italian. But no German songs at all.

-:-

THE MORALE of the Philharmonic under Bernstein is very high. They love each other — Bernstein and his instrumentalists — noisly and in public.

These public expressions of mutual esteem happen constantly and in the funniest places, and I found them entrancing.

Leaving the Rafifi, for example, Bernstein encountered one of his men coming in. They fell on each other with happy cries.

"This is the greatest second trombone in the world," declared Bernstein. "I love this trombone player."

If he talks like that about a second trombone player, how on earth do you suppose he addresses a first trombone?

Murder And Robbery Counts Filed Against 2

CINCINNATI (AP)—Charges of murder and robbery have been filed against two men in the slaying of William E. Patton, 63, who was kicked to death during a holdup in his grocery.

Detectives filed the charges Thursday against Harry Hollis, 26, and Claude Maul, 19, Negro brothers-in-law. Detective Lytle Young said both admitted Monday night's holdup of the one-legged white grocer and both admitted kicking the man after he had been forced to the floor. They got about $80 from a cash register.

Detroit Hoodlum Goes Free After 2 Years In Prison

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The federal prison here opened its doors Thursday and out of two years' confinement stepped Pete Licavoli, Detroit prohibition era hoodlum and brother of Thomas (Yonnie) Licavoli who is serving life in Ohio Penitentiary for first-degree murder.

Licavoli was sentenced to 30 months in prison for income tax evasion and six months for contempt of Congress for ignoring a subpoena to testify before the Senate rackets committee in Detroit in 1958.

During his long crime career, police said, he was involved in gambling enterprises in Cleveland, Detroit and Canada and had been arrested for robbery, rum running, kidnaping, carrying concealed weapons, murder, extortion, gambling and assault.

His wife met him at the prison gate for a flight back to Detroit.

His brother, Thomas, a prohibition era mobster from Detroit and Toledo, headed a 47 - member gang that police blamed for 16 murders. He entered Ohio Penitentiary Nov. 10, 1934, for ordering the slayings of four persons. Last December Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle refused to commute his sentence to second-degree murder so he could be paroled.

Electronic 'Brain' Overcharges On Bills

CLEVELAND (AP) — An electronic "brain" in the billing office of the East Ohio Gas Co. exaggerated charges on about 8,000 bills for West Side customers this week. The bills on the average called for about twice as much as normal. The mistake was discovered when customers complained after receiving their bills.

With the defect in the machine corrected, the billing crew did the job over at overtime rates Thursday night. Wade E. Shurtleff, East Ohio's director of community relations, said letters of apology and explanation were due at the aggrieved customers' homes today and Saturday.

Girl, 5, Is Killed By Car On Highway

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP) — Nancy Kay Carnes, 5, was struck and killed by a car as she crossed U.S. 33 enroute home from school. Mrs. Theresa Carnes, mother of six, had ordinarily escorted her daughter across the road, but Thursday decided to let Nancy try it by herself while the mother watched from the lawn of her home at Rt. 1, St. Johns, east of here.

When Nancy reached the edge of the highway, Mrs. Carnes called to her to wait. The kindergarten pupil waited until an eastbound car passed, then darted into the path of a westbound auto.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN CROSBY

Bernstein—A National Asset

John Crosby

BERLIN — Leonard Bernstein faced an audience of 1,700 German students with superb assurance and told them about Beethoven. Beethoven, he said, was not German (in the sense that Debussy was French). He was universal.

I didn't know how well this thought would go down with a German audience. It went down very well, though. Later Bernstein got large laughs playing bits of Beethoven's Concerto No. 1 in C Major as it would be played by a Frenchman, a German, a Russian and an American.

(Privately, he will tell you Beethoven's C Major Concerto should be played only by Hungarians.)

* * *

LATER, HE SAT DOWN and tore through the whole concerto, giving a performance of superb brilliance and bravura. Actually, it was the second time he'd played it that day before an audience.

Earlier, during dress rehearsal for the television show he was then taping, he had played the whole concerto before a different audience.

Later that evening, he gave a concert for Eurovision and he played it a third time. This may be the only time a performer has ever done that concerto three times before three different audiences the same day.

He almost ran out of stamina for the third go-round — the sheer physical demands of that concerto are enormous — and he felt that his concentration was not what it should have been.

* * *

I THOUGHT again, as I have thought many times before, that Bernstein is a national asset beyond price.

He is a living refutation (one of the few we own) of the oft-heard charge that Americans are cultural barbarians. Conductor, composer, teacher, performer — he is all that and more. He's an individual as vivid as a flash of lightning, full of swagger and charm and the courage of his own eccentricities.

The Europeans have nothing like him — at least no one living.

Mr. Bernstein and the Philharmonic were flown to Berlin by the Ford Motor Co. because Charles Moore, vice president of Ford, felt this country wasn't adequately represented at the West Berlin Music Festival.

For the Berliners he conducted two concerts and for his own show (on tape) he played and conducted the Beethoven Concerto, all in three hectic days. (The show will be seen here on CBS-TV, possibly on Thanksgiving.)

* * *

IN BETWEEN rehearsals, concerts, receptions and newspaper interviews, Mr. Bernstein found time to attend Rosh Hashonah services. (He prefaced his Beethoven concerto with the Hebrew prayer: "May the Lord lift up His face to give you peace." The Germans applauded politely.)

And he sampled the nightlife. The night before his three-concert performance, he was out until 3:30 a.m., mostly in a joint called Rafifi, which is exuberantly lowbrow and stays open 24 hours a day.

Rafifi is about as far from Beethovan as you can get. It specializes in rock 'n' roll, if you must know—both on the jukebox and from the live performers who sing it and play it with sullen ferocity.

* * *

BERNSTEIN swept into Rafifi with his coat draped over his shoulders, looking like an amalgam of John Barrymore and Stravinsky, and watched a guitar-playing teenager howl rock 'n' roll with good-natured scorn.

"They do it so badly," he observed.

I got to thinking that not only is rock 'n' roll international — you can hear it from Tokyo to Istanbul now — but the expression of the singer (if that's what they are) is identical wherever you go.

It's a sort of snarling scowl, as unvarying as the terrible melodies (if that's what they are). Did you ever see a rock 'n' roll singer smile?

I sampled a good deal of night life myself in the land of Beethovan and Wagner and not once did I hear a song sung in German. I heard many French songs and, of course, scores of American songs — everything from Cole Porter to Hoagy Carmichael — and a few Italian. But no German songs at all.

* * *

THE MORALE of the Philharmonic under Bernstein is very high. They love each other — Bernstein and his instrumentalists — noisly and in public.

These public expressions of mutual esteem happen constantly and in the funniest places, and I found them entrancing.

Leaving the Rafifi, for example, Bernstein encountered one of his men coming in. They fell on each other with happy cries.

"This is the greatest second trombone in the world," declared Bernstein. "I love this trombone player."

If he talks like that about a second trombone player, how on earth do you suppose he addresses a first trombone?

Murder And Robbery Counts Filed Against 2

CINCINNATI (AP)—Charges of murder and robbery have been filed against two men in the slaying of William E. Patton, 63, who was kicked to death during a holdup in his grocery.

Detectives filed the charges Thursday against Harry Hollis, 20, and Claude Maul, 19, Negro brothers-in-law. Detective Lytle Young said both admitted Monday night's holdup of the one-legged white grocer and both admitted kicking the man after he had been forced to the floor. They got about $80 from a cash register.

Elizabeth Taylor Cuts Weight For New Film

LONDON (AP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor, after bulging at the seams, has grimly reduced back to a trim and lovely 38-22-36, her studio announced today.

As a result, the film beauty has started fitting the 62 costumes she'll wear as Cleopatra in a new film about to start shooting, perhaps the most challenging role of her career.

Detroit Hoodlum Goes Free After 2 Years In Prison

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The federal prison here opened its doors Thursday and out of two years' confinement stepped Pete Licavoli, Detroit prohibition era hoodlum and brother of Thomas (Yonnie) Licavoli who is serving life in Ohio Penitentiary for first-degree murder.

Licavoli was sentenced to 30 months in prison for income tax evasion and six months for contempt of Congress for ignoring a subpoena to testify before the Senate rackets committee in Detroit in 1958.

During his long crime career, police said, he was involved in gambling enterprises in Cleveland, Detroit and Canada and had been arrested for robbery, rum running, kidnaping, carrying concealed weapons, murder, extortion, gambling and assault.

His wife met him at the prison gate for a flight back to Detroit.

His brother, Thomas, a prohibition era mobster from Detroit and Toledo, headed a 47 - member gang that police blamed for 16 murders. He entered Ohio Penitentiary Nov. 10, 1934, for ordering the slayings of four persons. Last December Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle refused to commute his sentence to second-degree murder so he could be paroled.

Electronic 'Brain' Overcharges On Bills

CLEVELAND (AP) — An electronic "brain" in the billing office of the East Ohio Gas Co. exaggerated charges on about 8,000 bills for West Side customers this week. The bills on the average called for about twice as much as normal. The mistake was discovered when customers complained after receiving their bills.

With the defect in the machine corrected, the billing crew did the job over at overtime rates Thursday night. Wade E. Shurtleff, East Ohio's director of community relations, said letters of apology and explanation were due at the aggrieved customers' homes today and Saturday.

Girl, 5, Is Killed By Car On Highway

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP) — Nancy Kay Carnes, 5, was struck and killed by a car as she crossed U.S. 33 enroute home from school. Mrs. Theresa Carnes, mother of six, had ordinarily escorted her daughter across the road, but Thursday decided to let Nancy try it by herself while the mother watched from the lawn of her home at Rt. 1, St. Johns, east of here.

When Nancy reached the edge of the highway, Mrs. Carnes called to her to wait. The kindergarten pupil waited until an eastbound car passed, then darted into the path of a westbound auto.

THIS THREE BEDROOM home has the very finest hardwood floors downstairs in the living room and dining room with a very nice open arrangement. Upstairs we have a new bathroom in color and three nice bedrooms with sliding door closets. $8,500 near town.

A NEAT BUNGALOW having a modern shingle roof, Perfection gas furnace, real nice bath plus shower and toilet in the basement. There is a garage too and it is close to town. Asking $9,000.

EVERY DAY THIS LADY ASKS me if we have sold her home and actually I don't know why we haven't. It has three bedrooms with all hardwood floors, good basement, single garage. The price is less than they paid for it 8 years ago on a V. A. loan, so I know it is not overpriced at $7,900.

THIS THREE BEDROOM home has the very finest hardwood floors downstairs in the living room and dining room with a very nice open arrangement. Upstairs we have a new bathroom in color and three nice bedrooms with sliding door closets. $9,500 near town.

A NEAT BUNGALOW having a modern shingle roof, Perfection gas furnace, real nice bath plus shower and toilet in the basement. There is a garage too and it is close to town. Asking $5,800.

EVERY DAY THIS LADY ASKS me if we have sold her home and actually I don't know why we haven't. It has three bedrooms with all hardwood floors, good basement, single garage. The price is less than they paid for it 8 years ago on a V. A. loan, so I know it is not overpriced at $7,800.

Takes Respite From Campaign

Kennedy Criticizes Ike, Nixon On Foreign Policy

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP— Sen. John F. Kennedy took a partial respite from his presidential campaign today after assailing the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon's role in that field.

Kennedy, the Democratic nominee, lit into Nixon, his Republican rival for the White House, and indirectly into President Eisenhower in a speech at Syracuse, N. Y., Thursday night.

Then the Massachusetts senator flew to his home here, arriving well after midnight, for a one-day rest mixed with a little work.

Kennedy's only announced political activity for the day was a scheduled morning address by telephone to a group of dairy farmers meeting in Syracuse.

The senator will be back on the campaign trail Saturday. He flies to Chicago in the morning to address the Polish-American Congress, then travels on to Minneapolis for a speech.

In his Syracuse address, carried on a New York state television network, Kennedy listed areas around the world where the Communists have helped to precipitate crises during the last 12 months.

He said that each of the areas had been visited earlier by Nixon as vice president.

"Why was not our Latin America capital investment program strengthened in 1958, after Mr. Nixon was there, instead of now at the point of Mr. Castro's gun?" Kennedy asked in referring to Cuba's anti-American prime minister.

"Why did we fail to recognize the situation in Laos—in India—in Japan—in Poland and other areas of the world—before the crises developed?

"Mr. Nixon was there—presumably he saw what was going on—presumably he made recommendations.

"But it is apparently an unfortunate fact that for all these years a trip by Mr. Khrushchev . . .has had a far greater effect on our foreign policy than a trip by Mr. Nixon."

"The facts of the matter are," Kennedy said, "that trips and tours are not enough. Words and debates are not enough. Slogans about peace are not enough."

Chocolate And Nuts Flavor Quick Tea Bread

Four o'clock tea—or "elevenses"—are two customs we might do well to borrow from our English cousins. Which to choose depends on the time you can most conveniently allot to a quiet hour with friends and neighbors—or to yourself.

Leisure is the keynote, so let arrangements be simple. Plain bread and butter is good with tea, but there will be times when you want something special, such as this simple-to-make Chocolate Fleck Nut Bread.

Its basic ingredient is prepared biscuit mix, with sweet cooking chocolate, grated, adding a delicious flavor and texture. Crisp nuts and grated orange rind contribute their special interest to this unusual quick bread.

This bread improves in flavor and is easier to slice if made at least twenty - four hours ahead. Make it on some not too busy day, wrap it in foil or seran wrap and tuck it away from pilfering small hands, to be brought out for a neighborly tea-time treat.

Chocolate Fleck Nut Bread

3 cups prepared biscuit mix
¾ cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
¾ cup milk
½ cup orange juice
1 package (¼ pound) sweet cooking chocolate, coarsely grated (about 1 cup)
¾ cup chopped walnuts
2 teaspoons grated orange rind (optional)

Combine biscuit mix and sugar in a large bowl. Then combine beaten egg, milk, and orange juice. Add to biscuit mix. Beat vigorously about 30 seconds. Stir in chocolate, nuts, and orange rind. Spoon into a well - greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degree F.) 55 to 60 minutes. Let stand in pan about 15 minutes. Then turn out on rack to cool. Store, wrapped in foil or seran wrap, and allow to mellow for a day before slicing.

151 Million Added To Surplus By Delaying Checks One Day

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration increased its 1960 budget surplus $151.5 million by delaying for one day each month the issuance of servicemen's allotments checks, Rep. Peter F. Mack, D-Ill., said today.

A total surplus of about $1.1 billion for the year ended June 30 was announced by the Treasury in July.

Mack said a report by Comptroller General Joseph Campbell related that the Army and Air Force mailed only 11 monthly allotment payments to servicemen's dependents during the year that ended June 30.

The June payment, which would have normally been mailed June 30, wasn't sent out until July 1 and will be charged to expenses for the 1961 fiscal year which ends next June 30, Mack added.

The Navy, Mack said, has not changed its normal practice of issuing allotment checks the last day of each month.

Campbell, in a letter which Mack made public today, said his General Accounting Office is attempting to ascertain the reasons for the Army's action.

The Air Force said it made the change, Campbell reported in his letter, because when the mailings were on the last day of each month, many discontinuance notices had been received too late to stop the checks.

Oft-Wed Woman Seized By FBI On Checks Count

CHICAGO (AP)—A 32-year-old woman, reported by the FBI to have been married 11 times, mostly to servicemen, was seized by FBI agents Thursday after a search of 11 months.

She was identified as Virginia Shawn McNeil Kechmark Peltier Le Joy Dewger Debus of suburban North Chicago. The FBI said she has at least four other last names.

Julius M. Lopez, special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office, said it is not known yet whether she ever got a divorce.

Lopez said she was accused of collecting $8,000 in government subsistence checks in the last three years. She was named in a warrant issued Monday by a California judge, charging violation of probation.

She was convicted four years ago in Los Angeles of fraud against the government in connection with her successive marriages, then totaling eight.

Lopez said a month after her conviction she went to Las Vegas, Nev., and married Albert A. Peltier, a sailor in whose name she received $157.10 a month. On Dec. 6, 1958, she married another sailor, Charles K. Dewger, in Giles County, Tenn., and got $127.10 a month. In January 1959, she married Donald E. Debus, a sailor stationed at Great Lakes Naval Training Center, with whom she was living when arrested.

Moose Lodge Hears 2 Officials Of Order

Harvey Flora, Mooseheart governor, and Leo Casey, state Moose director, were guest speakers at a special meeting of Moose Lodge 122 Wednesday night at the lodge home.

The two officials spoke on lodge work and membership, especially concerning young people.

Plans were made for an "East Palestine Night" program Saturday from 9 to 12 at which East Palestine Lodge 476 will be guests. Music will be furnished by Tom Calalli and his orchestra.

A public fish fry will be held tonight from 5 to 8 at the lodge home. The drill team will practice tonight at 8, Ernie Edmonson, captain, said.

Army Recruiters List New Technical Schools

A new list of available Army technical schools and vocational jobs has been received by area Army recruiters, Sfc. Emuel Bosley and M.Sgt. Rocco Minnitte.

Qualified applicants will receive assignments to these schools and jobs on a first-come, first-serve basis. Applicants are given a series of aptitude tests to qualify, and will receive a written guarantee of assignment before they are enlisted.

The enlistment period is three years regardless of age at the time of signing, the sergeants said. Information is available at the recruiting office at the Post Office, which is open Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Some American highway experts are predicting that, if the present rate of automobile manufacture keeps up, in 80 years from now there will be more cars than people.

Steals Judge's Wallet

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Nathaniel Pickron, 38, was held in $500 bail on a burglary charge. He was accused of stealing the wallet of Judge Robert W. Honeyman of Montgomery County Court. There was no money in the wallet, taken from inside the judge's suit coat which was hanging in his chambers.

Boston Cheers Vice President

Nixon's Campaign Gathers Steam With Ike's Blessing

EN ROUTE WITH NIXON (AP) —Vice President Richard M. Nixon's campaign drive gathered impetus today from President Eisenhower's all-out blessings, a big boost in party war funds and a thundering Boston reception.

The cheers of tens of thousands who watched him drive through Boston streets still rang in his ears when the Republican presidential nominee spoke to more than 6,000 followers at a $100-a-plate fund raising dinner at Commonwealth Armory Thursday night.

"This has been one of the greatest days of campaigning we've ever experienced," Nixon said.

Using the crowd estimate of Lt. Col. John C. Blake of the state police, he added: "Nobody dreamed, I least of all, that we would come into the home state of our opponent and break the record and have a quarter of a million people on the streets."

Nixon watched and listened over closed-circuit telvision linking 36 party-raising dinners around the country while Eisenhower, speaking from Chicago, called his vice president a better man qualified for the presidency than any man he knows.

Those dinners were expected to provide somewhere between $1.7 million to $2 million to help finance Nixon's drive to defeat Sen. John F. Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat, for the presidency.

In the course of two speeches, one before, and one telecast to the diners around the nation, Nixon lit into Kennedy with some of the sharpest language he has used to date.

He said the record of Kennedy and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, his vice-presidential running mate, in the short session of Congress, "was a monumental failure" and that "a monumental failure is no recommendation for leadership for the United States of America today."

He said Kennedy's campaign proposals "are wrong and out of step with what the American people think" and that the voters are going to "say 'no' to him on Nov. 8th."

Nixon said that in the 1952 campaign both Eisenhower and Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson agreed "there was a mess in Washington."

In 1960, he added, "the American people are not going to turn to a man and his party who made the mess eight years ago."

Over and over, he called the short session of Congress, which failed to enact Kennedy's $1.25 minimum wage, federal-aid-to-education and other bills, "the Kennedy Congress."

Takes Respite From Campaign

Kennedy Criticizes Ike, Nixon On Foreign Policy

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP—Sen. John F. Kennedy took a partial respite from his presidential campaign today after assailing the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon's role in that field.

Kennedy, the Democratic nominee, lit into Nixon, his Republican rival for the White House, and indirectly into President Eisenhower in a speech at Syracuse, N. Y., Thursday night.

Then the Massachusetts senator flew to his home here, arriving well after midnight, for a one-day rest mixed with a little work.

Kennedy's only announced political activity for the day was a scheduled morning address by telephone to a group of dairy farmers meeting in Syracuse.

The senator will be back on the campaign trail Saturday. He flies to Chicago in the morning to address the Polish-American Congress, then travels on to Minneapolis for a speech.

In his Syracuse address, carried on a New York state television network, Kennedy listed areas around the world where the Communists have helped to precipitate crises during the last 12 months.

He said that each of the areas had been visited earlier by Nixon as vice president.

"Why was not our Latin America capital investment program strengthened in 1958, after Mr. Nixon was there, instead of now at the point of Mr. Castro's gun?" Kennedy asked in referring to Cuba's anti-American prime minister.

"Why did we fail to recognize the situation in Laos—in India—in Japan—in Poland and other areas of the world—before the crises developed?

"Mr. Nixon was there—presumably he saw what was going on—presumably he made recommendations.

"But it is apparently an unfortunate fact that for all these years a trip by Mr. Khrushchev . . . has had a far greater effect on our foreign policy than a trip by Mr. Nixon."

"The facts of the matter are," Kennedy said, "that trips and tours are not enough. Words and debates are not enough. Slogans about peace are not enough."
